HYMN TO THE EARTH

By JOHN TEMPLE

Grave Thou—of the long-forgotten
 Hope Thou—of the yet unborn:
 Now white with the rime of Winter
 Now yellow, with fields of corn:
 To Thee do I lift this votive
 Of song that I learned to phrase
 Where the pines of the lone Sierra
 Croon hymns of eternal praise.

A speck in the starry legions
 That glitter and shine by night;
 Yet a World unto us poor humans
 Full of majesty, awe and might.
 Vain—vain are the many fables
 That tell of thy primal birth:
 We know Thee—yet cannot know thee
 Who love Thee—old mother Earth.

Aswing with yon myriad Systems
 That blaze in the realms of space;
 What mind can conceive the purpose
 Of this vast and sidereal race?
 Bound out—on a nameless journey
 Out—out—to the vast Unknown!
 And we must journey with Thee.
 Since we are Thy blood and bone.

Art Thou the one Planet, lonely
 Where God—"Made descent as Man"?
 Holds Thy bosom the secret, only,
 Of some great and mysterious Plan?
 Did the Cosmic Father choose Thee
 From ten billion, billion spheres
 As the scene of "Transfiguration"
 Where the "Word—made Flesh"—appears?

* * *

Not partially God sends Life
 To any one Sphere or Sun,
 Yet, O Lord of this Universe,
 Thy Will on earth, be Done!
 All things in Creation join,
 In a synthesis all must share,
 And wherever it be—thy Servant is he
 Whose Deeds—and not words—are Prayer.

The Three Life Cycles and Their Horoscopes

By

DANE RUDHYAR

If the reader refers to my article "The Unfolding of the Individual Self" in the August issue of "American Astrology" he will find detailed reference to the division of a normal human life into three twenty-eight year cycles. These three great periods,—which added together constitute astronomically the cycle of Uranus (84 years) and psychologically, the cycle of "Individuation" or Self-formation,—have shown to be of ever greater and more essential significance as I have studied their unfoldment in the lives of those who have appealed to me for astro-psychological advice. I have explained already that these three periods correspond respectively to the three great divisions of the total human being into body, soul and spirit—to three "births" (one always present—the physical; the two other potential—and in most people only shadowy and incomplete).

In this article I shall attempt to make the matter of these "births" and of the meaning of "soul" and "spirit" in this connection, at least, more concrete and more real. I hope that thereby many students, not only of Astrology, but of life in general will be stimulated to a new evaluation of their life-development. Moreover I shall indicate how horoscopes can be erected for the "soul-birth" and "spirit-birth" which, if their meaning is well understood and their use clearly defined can be of great psychological value.

The division of any cycle of activity or manifestation in three phases is universal and inherent in the very nature of all processes of development, whether they be biological, intellectual or spiritual. In logic we have the syllogism; a set of three propositions: Thesis, antithesis, synthesis. These constitute a cycle of logical—intellectual development. In an even more general and dynamic or vital sense, we can speak of action, reaction and interaction. Again we may mention the psychological—social trinity of: dependence, independence, interdependence. This can be paralleled by the series: unconscious, conscious, integral selfhood—which, in a more abstract sense, can be expressed: collective, individual, operative wholeness. And again: fact, idea, significance.

This last set of terms is particularly interesting from our present standpoint, for the three concepts (fact, idea, significance) characterize most accurately the three "births" which we are now to study. The physical birth is the fact of autonomous existence. It is a concrete, incontrovertible, sine qua non fact.

Therefore it is the foundation of everything having to do with a particular living being. The horoscope of physical birth is the astrological fact; by physical birth I mean the moment when, through the first breath, the human being begins to function as a self-sustaining entity. The baby is, of course, only most relatively self-sustaining. Nevertheless he can live for a while without food and therefore can function alone. This cannot be said obviously of the embryo. Birth must always be taken to mean the beginning of independent existence; and natal astrology deals solely with organic wholes having to some extent at least the capacity of independent existence.

A "fact" exists independently. It just is—unless one disclaims any reality to an objective world and one believes in absolute idealism. Even in this case a fact, then, becomes real insofar as the collectivity of men recognize it as a fact. And this thought links together the first terms of two of our previous series; fact and collective. A fact is a collective value. Likewise physical birth and the physical body are both facts and collective values. The body, especially at birth, represents that part of the total human being, in which collective values dominate. The baby is a mere compound of race—influences and parental inheritance. He is a product of the collective, a biological organism functioning essentially like all similar organisms. His inner reactions are first of all and almost exclusively physiological. They well up from the "collective unconscious" of the human species. Thus we have the parallelism of: fact, collective, unconscious, body—to which we must add: dependence and thesis. The baby is almost entirely dependent on others for its continued existence. Besides, this physical birth and the body represent the "thesis" of the entire life of this particular human being. In this body life propounds its thesis, its first theme. A particular human being is first of all the flowering of its collective ancestry. In this the particular man or woman finds his other point of departure.

The student of religious philosophy and occultism may object and say that man is first of all an incarnating Soul, and that the body is an illusion or the mere working out of past karma. But in these terms, so little understood, "past Karma" is contained the very proof of our proposition. Past Karma, or in Buddhist terminology the "skandhas" of the past cycles of existence, represent the collective and unconscious factor in a human being. The occultist or student of Oriental philosophy, speaks of this factor as the residuum of past lives. The psychologist considers it as the sum-total of ancestral elements. Both refer to the same thing looked at from two different premises of thought. Insofar as the manifested concrete human being is considered, the body, and all that is the strict result of its initial functioning, is the "fact" of embodied existence: and this fact shows an enormous preponderance of collective elements.

The first 28 year cycle is the process of development of this fact: and the pre-natal period of gestation of the second element of the total human being. This second element may be characterized by the following words: individual, soul, idea, antithesis, independence—and in general, reaction.

This concept of "reaction" is of vital importance in psychology, and also in order to evaluate properly the meaning of astrological progressions from the ages 28 to 56. In analytical psychology the term used more specifically is "compensation"; but it is meant in a more technical and limited sense, which fits only partly the use I am now making of the term "reaction."

I consider the individual proper to be a reaction against the collective, ancestral, traditional and social elements, which have dominated the first life cycle. The majority of human beings do not react against these collective factors. They remain creatures of the collective, continuing the traditions of their family and race—the mouthpieces of their environment. What they call "I" is merely the product of the environment. It has really no individual or autonomous characteristics. However, insofar as they "react" they begin to individualize, to set themselves as separate. If the reaction is and remains merely one of antagonism and denial then the collective factor is dominating just the same, but in a negative, evil way. The pseudo-individual is just as bound by his hatred as by his earlier love. The true individual "reacts" not by mere opposition to the collective, but by setting up a new foundation of being, a new point of view which is really his own.

What shows it to be really "individual" is that it is based on Ideas; that it involves thought, and not mere emotional repulsion. Idea can be said to be the antithesis of fact, as thinking is the antithesis of feeling. Antithesis does not mean, of course, denial of the thesis, or the contrary of the thesis; but a new proposition which brings in a new point of view. That this new point of view is related to the original one (thesis) will be shown in the synthesis; but at first the antithesis appears as a basically new standpoint—and thus the idea, or ideal, appears usually at first as completely distinct from the fact. The ideals oppose the facts of existence; the individual fights against collective values, independence seems opposed to dependence; "rugged individualism" denies violently the facts of collective living, etc.

Thus we have, in the second cycle of life (28 to 56) either a crystallization of the social person along the lines of ancestral traditions, or a passionate fight against all race traditions (turning usually into neuroses and physiological breakdown); or else the development of an individual basis of living, which takes place at a level distinct from the physiological level, but influencing the later. This new level is the creative mental level; not merely mental, in the sense of a mind which but recapitulates the mental traditions and cultural facts of the surroundings; but mental, in the sense of a vital and creative activity of the psyche manifesting in original ideas and individual feelings, in an autonomous approach to the inner and the outer realities of life.

It is only in this latter case that we can really speak of a "second birth" or "soul birth"; and therefore that there is any reason for casting a new horoscope for this second period of the life. I doubt that one can infer from the physical birth-chart whether the native will experience a real "second birth," and whether it is worth while to erect a chart for the twenty-eighth birthday as a symbol of his individual psychological development thereafter. But if the native is known personally, then the point can be decided intuitively or by direct evidence. A soul-chart will have obviously only a psychological significance and ought not to be used for determination of physical plane events. It may be considered only. As a seed-symbol of the form and rhythm of unfolding of the truly individual selfhood of the native.

The best way to cast such an "inner chart" seems to be as follows:

(1) Find the progressed Mid-Heaven for the twenty-eighth birthday of the native at his birthplace; and set the house-cusps accordingly. One degree of motion of the Mid-Heaven corresponds to one year of the life.

(2) Calculate the position of the planets at the twenty-eighth birthday for the original time of physical birth, but if there is a new place of residence for this new place.

The reason for this procedure is that, as can be inferred from what I wrote in my last article, the circle of houses represents always the individual factor in a nativity, while the planets refer to the ever-changing relationship between collective and individual. I progress the Mid-Heaven and house-cusps, because the second birth is the development of individual potentialities latent in the fact of the first birth. What was a hidden seed within the act of independent physical existence becomes theoretically at the age of 28, an active germ. Thus the charts' axes, which symbolized the potentiality of individual selfhood in the original nativity, are brought, by their own inherent power of unfoldment, to fill development in the progressed positions on which the "second-birth" chart is based. More than ever in this new chart, the axes and all cusps carry the whole burden of individual soul-significance; and the symbols attached to the degrees of all the cusps become all-important.

On the other hand, I calculate the position of the planets for this "second-birth" chart not by progression, but according to their actual position at the time and place where the twenty-eighth birthday occurs, because then these planetary positions will symbolize the new personal and social set-up in the midst of which this interior birth occurs. This set-up is not to be inferred from the circumstances of the physical birth. It is not a development of the latter, but in a sense an entirely new set. And, as this is most evidently so when the native has moved from his birthplace the birth time must be calculated according to the longitude of the new residence.

I do not make use of the latitude of this new place of residence with reference to the houses because I do not consider the new house-circle (in this "second birth" chart) as a totally new factor, but only as a development of potentialities latent in the physical birth-chart. It might be said that, in this case, the Radix system of professions would be more logical as it would retain the pattern of the original cusps' relationship, but I have decided against it, both for philosophical reasons and as the result of experimentation involving check-up with the symbols of the degrees of cusps in cases well known to me.

In articles which will follow in the forthcoming issues of "American Astrology" I shall give some illustrations of the way in which this "second-birth" chart can be interpreted; but I may say at once that perhaps the most significant items in such a chart are the symbols of the degrees of cusps and planets, together with the house-positions of the planets. Interesting indications may also be deduced from comparing the positions of the radical planets (planets of the physical birth), when placed in this "second-birth" chart, with those of the planets at this twenty-eighth birthday.

At this point, it might be well to develop briefly the idea above-mentioned, which attributes to the planets,—and more correctly to the general pattern made by all planets,—the significance of "the ever-changing relationship between collective and individual." This can be easily explained as follows: Man is on one hand the flowering of his race—ancestry, on the other, a pattern of potential individual selfhood. The former represents the collective element, the latter the individual element. Both elements relate themselves to each other and the result of this ever-changing relationship is what I shall call the personality; Man, as he appears outwardly in his life, contacts and behavior.

This personality is symbolized by the planets and the pattern they form in their inter-relationships. Some of the planets (planets of the conscious) stand for that part of the personality in which the individual factors operate; others (planets of the unconscious) refer to the part of the personality in which the collective factors predominate. The Sun symbolizes the central point of the personality where the integrating forces of Life are active.

The reader may remember, at this point, that I wrote in my article on the "Degree of the Zodiac" (September, 1934) that the degree represented the synthesis of collective and individual: the synthesis of the two main motions of the earth, around the Sun and around its own axis (year and day). What we can add now is that the planets of a chart indicate the degrees of the Zodiac which are set in operation in a particular life. They are set in operation by the planets posited on these degrees: and the operation is determined by the nature of the planets.

If the Sun is placed on the degree symbolized by "An Owl"—the bird of wisdom and of poised contemplation of the mysteries of life—what is meant is that the "integrating forces of Life" bring into operation the element of Wisdom in the native's destiny. Wisdom (of the type symbolized by the Owl) will be the gate to integration and total Selfhood. The Sun-force will project this factor of Wisdom at the very center of the native's tendencies toward integration and full individuation.

If Mars were posited on that same degree, then the "power of initiating action" (which is what Mars stands for in the most general sense) would project into the native's destiny the factor of wisdom. His impulses would be grounded in Wisdom. Wisdom would reveal itself in the way he begins his every endeavor. If Venus were on the same degree, then Wisdom would reveal itself on the contrary in the way the native brings his actions to a close; in the consciousness or emotion which he gathers from experience, as a bee (sacred to Venus) gathers honey from flowers (the consummation of the plant life).

These remarks constitute the basis on which the "second-birth" chart must be interpreted. They are as valuable in the interpretation of the original nativity; but because this nativity represents a concrete fact, the concrete and materialistic type of interpretation is valid in regard to it. The "second birth" is not a fact, but an idea. It occurs in the realm of ideas, which are symbolic representations and generalized images. Therefore, the "second-birth" chart must be interpreted symbolically; and the symbols of the degree take a position of paramount importance—particularly those of the angles.

What has been said of the "second-birth" chart can be said also of the "third-birth" chart. The same procedure can be applied, using this time the fifty-sixth birthday instead of the twenty-eighth. In this third period of the life the forces of synthesis and integration should be predominant. The element of significance should take the place of the previous elements of "fact" and "idea"; or rather should reconcile both. Facts are now to be seen in terms of ideas, and spiritually or essentially one with them. The opposites are to be reconciled. Independence is to be shown as but the polar opposite of dependence. Interdependence is to be seen as the fact of the higher dependence of all independent spirits to an Ideal or Idea. Reaction is no longer opposed to action; but every factor of living is to be understood as the interacting functional parts of a whole.

Obviously one does not need to wait until the age of 56 to experience this vision of life. But few are those who have it before this age as an experienced fact. It may be an idea with them, from 28 and on. But reality is found only where idea becomes fact and every fact reveals to the experienter its glowing heart of significance. Thus 60 is often referred to as the "age of philosophy," and 63 as the age of spiritual integration. The latter combines as it were the cycles of collective development (9-year cycles) and those of individual development (7-year cycles), as 9 multiplied by 7 equals 63. The ages 7, 35, and 63 are time of formation. Then the Point of Self passes over the Nadir of the chart, where the abstract becomes concrete, and the Soul takes in a concrete embodiment.

The first 28-year cycle is thus the period of body-development; and the preparation for life as an individual. As the prenatal stage of the true individual selfhood, it represents a recapitulation of the psychological experience of the race, and (if reincarnation is admitted) of previous lives. The past, at 28 is summed up. It is now up to the individual as an individual to start a new page in the history of the human race (and of his reincarnating self). The "second-birth" chart reveals what this new page might be, —if it is at all.

Considering now the problem of the usual secondary progressions in a nativity, we will see that these progressions during the first 28 years—and especially during the first cycle of the progressed Moon up to its radical place—are to be referred especially to matters affecting the development of the body, or the social personality of the native. On the other hand, in the second cycle of the Moon's progressions, the aspects are to be referred to more individual factors—especially if the native is known to function as a true individual. More than this, it may be seen that, as the progressed Moon passes for the second time over critical points of the chart which brought important events during the first 28 years' cycle, there is a chance for the native. To undo the prior evil or to give a higher, more individual significance to the prior good fortune.

This is, I believe, a most important point. It is derived from the idea that the second 28-year cycle is the reaction to the action represented by the first 28-year cycle. The former can thus be a compensation for the latter; a period during which the wrong starting points of youth can be readjusted, and complexes may be brought into the light of the conscious and dissipated. That is why, especially between 35 and 49, this second life-period is the one that calls for psycho-analysis. It is the "change of life"—potentially as a redeeming experience; very often, as a distressing and chaotic upset re-emphasizing in a distorted way all the tendencies of the period 7 to 21. The astrologer who does not take this in consideration while studying the progressions during this critical turning point of life will undoubtedly miss the meaning of whatever is shown liable to occur.

Even the symbols of the degrees may have to be read differently, according as they refer to conditions of the first, or second, or third cycle. Each symbol can, theoretically at least, be interpreted at three levels. Each level corresponds to one of the cycles. The interpretation may be physical-social, or psychological-individual, or spiritual-synthetizing.

In the first cycle, man prepares himself for life as creative individual, while fulfilling his physiological and spiritual ancestry. In the second cycle, man prepares himself for life as a trustee of universal values, while fulfilling—possibly—his individual selfhood. In the third cycle, man prepares himself for death—the super-individual stage, or the threshold of a new individual birth—, while fulfilling—possibly—his duties toward humanity as trustee of universal values.

This states,—in a manner which, I believe, is adapted to the new conditions of human development, since the Sixth Century, B. C.,—the fundamental division of a human life in “ages” or cycles, which was the basis of Hindu-Azyan society. But whereas the old Azyans counted four “ages” corresponding to the four “castes” the new society (once it is “organized” in accordance with true psycho-social laws) will determine three life-cycles—which will fit in with the three “castes” of Plato’s ideal state. These three “castes” correspond to three types of human beings: (1) Those who produce physical values (agriculture—mining, etc.)—(2) Those who transform these values (industry, commerce)—(3) Those who create or handle down significance (philosophers, scientists, educators, organizers, statesmen, etc.).

We have so far considered these three cycles astrologically in terms of three turns of the wheel of houses. This of course is correct inasmuch as we were dealing mostly with the process of individuation, or individual-soul-formation; and the wheel of houses refers to individual factors. But if we watch the process from a universal and abstract standpoint, we can consider it as a complete unit, or cycle. As we do this we will obviously refer this cycle to the Zodiac; and we shall say that the first period begins with Aries; the second, with Leo; the third, with Sagittarius. Man is born physiologically in Aries; individually in Leo; spiritually or philosophically in Sagittarius.

Because of this, it has been said that there are three Zodiacs. The physiological Zodiac begins with Aries. It deals with physical, natural manifestation; with the cycle of vegetation and organized growth. The individual or soul-Zodiac begins with Leo. It deals essentially with Man; and thus for psychological purposes, is often to be preferred to the natural Zodiac beginning in Aries. The spiritual Zodiac begins with Sagittarius. It refers to the realm of significance and integration.

In a subsequent article we shall study these three Zodiacs in detail. Their symbolism is highly valuable. It dovetails beautifully with that of ancient India concerning the Lotus of the Soul. For the Lotus has three rows of petals, and each row, three petals. Each petal corresponds to one incarnation. The names of the petals, in each row, are Love, Knowledge, Sacrifice. As man is born, his life will exemplify either Love (Leo Zodiac) or Knowledge (Sagittarius Zodiac) or Sacrifice (Aries Zodiac); but if he is unfolding only the first row of petals, it will be love, knowledge or sacrifice that are materialistic and ruled by the self-seeking consciousness of the body. As however he begins to unfold the second row of petals, his three subsequent lives will be attuned respectively to a love, a knowledge, a sacrifice which are of the soul-quality of intelligence. Thereafter he will, at least, learn to experience in three more lives, love, knowledge and sacrifice that are truly spiritual and universal. After which will come the tenth life, the radiant consummation, which will shine by the light of the “Jewel within the Lotus,” the magical Pistil in which Life dwells and the Living God is born.

This is the meaning of the much misunderstood Zodiac of ten signs; which is a “blind” invented by the old Initiates of the Mysteries; which refers to the nine celestial Hierarchies, the nine Sephiroth and the Crown, the Tenth, of the Kabbala. The tenth is Death—which can mean absolute fulfillment, Nirvana.

Hindu Astrology

FORECAST FOR NOVEMBER 1934

Translated by

PRITAM SINGH GILL, B.A.

Pres.—Hindu Science Institute of America

Note:—The following forecast is a translation from Urdu (Hindustani) of the monthly forecast according to the rules of Hindu Astrology as given in the Mashur-i-Alam Jantry (World Renowned Almanac) published annually at Lahore, India, by Giridhari Lal, Hindu astrologer.

I Mirror of the Earth

(1) As the Hindu month of Maghar begins on Thursday, November 16th, with a neutral Nichhittar (Purbashadar Pad) in the ascendancy, therefore, there will not be any drastic trends higher or lower in the prices of commodities in general. Wheat will maintain a steady price level, with a few sudden changes. The average during this month will be the same as in the last month. Milk, butter and dairy products are likely to become a little scarce, therefore, higher in price. Cotton, cotton fabrics, silk and rayon will be lower in price; but wool and woolen goods will be higher. Sugar, honey, candied fruits, etc., will go up; commercial oils, such as linseed, fuel oil, etc., will maintain a higher price level. Cosmetics, perfumes, fine soaps will be higher. Gold, silver, copper, brass and nickel will be higher than in the previous month. Wood, coal, forage, tobacco will be in more active demand and therefore higher up in price. Rice and salt will be rather inactive on the commodity exchanges.

(2) As the Planets, Sun and Jupiter will be juxtaposed between Saturn and Mars, people should be careful of sudden changes of temperature and becoming sick. There will be many accidents and sudden deaths. People in general will tend to feel despondent and discouraged. Nervous breakdowns will be on the increase.

II Mirror of the Sky

(1) There will be lack of rains during the month. Dry cold will prevail. Strong headwinds are indicated on the 1st and 2nd, if it be cloudy on the 4th, 5th, 6th; strong winds on the 8th; cloudy and some rain on the 11th and 12th; cold winds will prevail on the 16th and 17th; cloudy on the 21st, 22nd and 23rd; slight showers on the 27th, 28th and 29th, accompanied by some lightning.

(2) If it is cloudy on November 2nd and some rain, we may expect plenty of rain in June 1935. If there are clouds, thunder and lightning on November 4th, then there will not be much rain during August 1935.

(3) If there is a halo around the Sun on morning of November 9th, then liquids, such as gasoline, milk, linseed oil, kerosene, etc., will go up in prices. If there is rain on November 10th we should expect plenty of rain in May 1935. If there are no clouds on November 18th then there is a great possibility of the crops going to waste. Clear skies on the morning of November 19th will indicate a great deal of happiness and tranquillity for the general public. If there is lightning and thunder on November 23rd, grains, in general, will be cheaper. Clouds on the morning of November 27th will indicate a great deal of rain in July 1935.

The Guardian on the Threshold

"And the Will therein liveth which dieth not, for God is but a great Will pervading all things by reason of its intentness. Man doth not yield himself unto the angels, nor unto Death utterly, but through the weakness of his feeble Will."—GLANVILLE.

It was explained in our last article that with the realization of Divine Unity attained through Libra, the initiate places the keystone in position completing the Royal Arch which unites the two pillars, the UNIVERSAL LAW and UNIVERSAL INTELLIGENCE; and from this point upward, the universal creative power which has hitherto operated only with a view to racial evolution, now finds a new center of activity—AN INDIVIDUALIZED CREATIVE CENTER in a completely individualized Soul which now becomes a channel for the universal power which can henceforth only operate in his life, through him, and under his personal direction.

Scorpio symbolizes therefore, one of the most critical steps on the path to Liberation. The individual, who claims to have earned the right to apply at the door of the Temple, must necessarily pass some very severe tests before he can be safely admitted. The fact of his being a channel for the creative powers of the universe carries with it great responsibilities, and as the responsibilities are great, so are the temptations. The experiences of the Christ during His period of probation in the wilderness gives us some idea of what must be experienced by him who would pass the tests of Scorpio.

This is the House of Death, also of Rebirth. It is the point at which we leave the World of Illusion and enter upon a new spiritual life. Here is found the bridge over the gulf between the Seen and the Unseen, but we must let go of the old before we can grasp the new, therefore he who passes the tests of this sign must face the Unknown. He must stand absolutely alone, all aid is withdrawn. The aspirant to first-hand knowledge of the GREAT SECRET must prove his worthiness to be trusted therewith, hence the Guardian on the Threshold, who inevitably refuses entrance to those who would be likely to use such knowledge for selfish purposes. The impassable barrier is Fear, and the key which removes that barrier is Faith, "the evidence of things not seen." The Israelites crossing the Red Sea symbolized the passage of the human soul through Scorpio, the House of Death.

Later they came to Jordan, (Pisces—twelfth House) thence the Promised Land of individualization and freedom (Aries). This cycle is gone through many times step by step by each Ego, and each time we arrive at the first House, we commence again on a higher plane of consciousness.

Every sign is threefold, even as all forms of nature may be resolved into three factors. This Trinity is expressed in various ways, the Father, Son and Holy Ghost—Will, Wisdom and Activity—Life, Form and Substance—Energy, Crystallization and Growth, etc., but these principles are fundamentally the same and at the basis of all manifestation. In the sign Scorpio you will find the Basic Urge flanked by its positive and negative, thus: Generation, Regeneration and Degeneration, and all three are necessary. We may see that good may be, from the opposite point of view, evil, but these are merely relative terms. Nothing in reality is either good or evil, but all things so called are necessary for perfection. We cannot have Regeneration without something that Degenerates; that which builds also destroys. Here in the sign of the Scorpio wherein is found the Sting of Death, is also found the germinating seed of a new form, even as the seed once sown must die in order that it may give birth to the flower of the future. So is man's body planeted in the tomb that his spirit may rise free from the limitations of material existence, but the occultist knows that physical death is not necessary. Even as the physical world is an illusion, so is physical death and birth also an illusion and symbolical of a spiritual experience. As a matter of fact, in the last analysis, DEATH is merely a TRANSITION from the old to the new. How much or how little of the past that may be retained is merely a matter of degree.

Having accepted Libra as symbolical of the Mystic Marriage whereby the human soul individually or collectively becomes conscious of its Divine Partner, the ceremony of marriage being symbolical of the realization of a cosmic identity, it naturally follows that Scorpio may be considered symbolical of the consummation of the Mystic Marriage. The esoteric interpretation of the Scorpio principle correlates it with the generative power of the spirit—faith, even as it is correlated with the generative power of the body—sex.

The initiate having realized his divine unity with all life, becomes conscious of the possession of divine (creative) powers. Through the experiences symbolized by Scorpio he learns how to create in his own right through the conscious direction of desire by the will to the achievement of a definite purpose selected by him through his divine prerogative choice.

The process of physical generation will throw much light on the analogous process in the mind or in spirit. We note it is necessary for two persons to unite in this act, even so, when anyone makes a decision which results in action, two wills unite. This is an occult law which explains many conditions prevailing in the purely social relationships of individuals with other individuals. Peculiar circumstances of failure or success can only be explained on a basis of spiritual or mental polarity, whether it be between individuals or groups of individuals. A practical exposition of this law was given by Paul Counsil in his article, "Economics of Sex" page 7 of the July 1934 issue of American Astrology. From the cosmic point of view the individual will unites with the cosmic Will. In this relationship, the cosmic may be allowed to represent the female principle. By an act of Will through the power of faith, the self-conscious creator plants his mental seeds in the womb of time, knowing that in due course the Law of Growth will bring forth a new environment according to his choice.

From this point of view, every time a person makes a decision of any kind, a generative act has taken place on the mental plane.

When through conscious direction of thought, the individual sows the seed of the future in the body of Nature, whose womb is Time, the universal intelligence proceeds to gather the materials necessary for the fulfillment of the purpose in view. Over these details, the individual as the male principle may be said to have little or no control. This may be, therefore, accepted as the mystic significance of the statement, "Thy will be done." Having sown the seed of the future in this spirit the individual may rest assured that Natural Law will see that the child of the future will come forth in due season in the form and environment corresponding to the personal desire of its creator. It is also worthy of note that birth does not follow immediately on the act of generation. The Law of Growth must be complied with—there must be a period of gestation.

The process whereby the spiritual child is developed through this prenatal period, is the subject of our next discussion when we will study Sagittarius from the Esoteric point of view.

NEPTUNE

Secret matters, Occultism, Mysticism, Health, Self-defence, Defiance Mechanism, Psychological or otherwise

Neptune is in the sign Virgo, in the twelfth house of your solar horoscope, from 1928 to 1942: a fairly complete analysis of this transit has already been given in a previous issue of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY.

A good, constructive phase of Neptune's influence manifests itself in November, 1934, culminating with the conjunction of Neptune and Mars November 11. This is not entirely a good influence, bringing some enmity to a crisis; it also warns you to guard your health from overindulgence, both in matters of eating and drinking, and in matters of mental strain or worry. However, through the sextiles to your second house planets now, it promises gain through some secret agreement, or through some private channels: this is the most practical influence of Neptune during the year. In January he supports your domestic matters quietly; in March, you are warned against nerves and brain fag; in July, a private enterprise succeeds, with a small boom to your credit from secret sources.

URANUS

Other people's money, and other people's effect on your money; Death, Wills, Inner Desire, Business Associations, Property (Frozen Assets).

Uranus is now by retrograde motion in the sign Aries, where he finishes up his work in your seventh house of partnership, marriage, associations, public popularity, and dealings with other people. This is an influence that has been in force since 1928, and has created unusual conditions around you in the departments of life referred to in the preceding sentence. It has been a period of rather severe nervous strain; personal and business matters alike have tended to go awry; you have been high strung, irritable and displeased with those around you. At the end of October, a lunation in opposition to Uranus really wrote finis to this condition; yet Uranus lingers in your seventh house till the end of March 1935. However, he here falls under excellent influences, and you may expect during the month of December especially some very satisfactory development in some matter of partnership, involving you pleasantly and profitably with a brother or male friend in a business arrangement that seems to be a very good and progressive thing for you. You are now able to make a very satisfactory compromise with your associates, as well as form some new and personally interesting contact. A small flurry from your domestic environment in January has an upsetting effect on you, but this is of minor importance; and your seventh house is freed of Uranus's disturbing influence under very pleasant auspices as he passes into the sign Taurus, in your eighth house on March 29th under the very favorable conjunctions of Venus, Sun, and Mercury.

This inaugurates well the beginning of Uranus's stay in your department that deals with other people's money, other people's effect on your money, and all matters relating to death and the goods of the dead. Yet, however good this influence may appear to be, at the beginning or any other time, the Uranian ray is eccentric, erratic, incalculable, fiery, rebellious, and temperamental: he brings great and sudden gains but he also paves the way for great and sudden losses. In your eighth house, which in addition to being the house of death is the house of the earthly counterpart of death, sleep, and the dreams that come in sleep, he will conspire with Neptune in your twelfth house to fill your mind with elaborate and extravagant schemes, probably for the making of money; for while Neptune creates day-dreams in your twelfth house, Uranus is busily acting on your subconscious to make these day-dreams even more plausible and practical-appearing in night-dreams; your subconscious will now actively recreate at night whatever you have had in your mind during the day, dressing it up in all the accoutrements of reality, and making the most lavish and grandiose schemes appear living realities. This is especially true of money matters, for Uranus occupies the sign Taurus, which is the second sign of the zodiac, and therefore analagous to the second, or money, house. You must therefore exercise especial caution that any venture of a financial nature that you embark in during this time (and this extends not only during this year, but during the entire transit of Uranus in Taurus, which lasts till May 1942) stands squarely on earthly and realistic foundations; especially any such plan emanating from a partner, or associate, or from anyone but yourself, must be subjected rigidly to the test of reality and practicality. There will be good plans presented for your approval and profit at this time, but there will also be bad plans presented, by yourself and others, in great abundance, and you will have to exercise great care and caution in separating the sheep from the goats. Furthermore, because Uranus is the ruler of your Solar fifth house, you are to be especially warned not to allow your emotions to interfere with your sound business judgment; this is not time, for example, to risk your money in a venture just because you like the people involved; they may be charming and romantic and realistic folk, and at the same time cost you plenty of money. You are impressionable now to the romantic urge; and there is a tendency to allow this to affect business matters: nothing could possibly be unsounder for you at this time than to give in to such persuasion. Try now to handle your own business and financial matters, and if you cannot do this, pick your agents and associates on a strictly business basis, being sure that, before all, they are sound business men with no erratic notions.

In this connection, you may expect during April to have some favorable offer of a financial or occupational nature that may be expected to yield you a conservative return by a combination of your efforts with the efforts and good will of some associate; you may expect all during this period to work fairly hard for whatever you get, although through the good offices of someone your labors will be well repaid. All during the year, as a matter of fact, the Uranian influence is good, and you may expect partnership to yield a fair return. It is possible also at this time that some matter of a will or legacy will involve you favorably. During the month of October there is a continuous favorable sextile between Uranus and Saturn in your sixth house of employment, and this Uranian ray to your department of work should bring you some very unusual return for what you are doing, though it won't cut down your work very much.

During May, a female associate of some wealth and position is favorable to your enterprises and helps you; in June, your position is bolstered by good report, and the influence of people in authority who can and will advance your prospects. July, private social influences are helpful and pleasurable both. Watch some friend during August; he may be expensive, but he won't hurt you; and toward the middle and end of the month, a private agreement favors you. In all, the Uranian ray is favorable to your interests this year, if you will be sure that you use the constructive, practical, side of it, and, as set forth at the beginning, avoid the erratic, dreamy, and too-highly-imaginative influence.

SATURN IN AQUARIUS

Emotional Life, Ambition.

Nearly at the same time that Uranus leaves your seventh house, and clears up an irritation in your associations, Saturn leaves your fifth house, where he has been since 1932 sitting heavily on your emotional life and ambitions, although all the time that you have been innerly dissatisfied, you have been outwardly advancing! During November, with the lunation November 6th in square to Saturn from your second house, there has been a depressing influence on you from your financial status, which I judge you imagine to be a good deal worse than it really is. As a matter of fact, your finances are picking up a good deal just now and, if you are dissatisfied, you are pretty likely to find that you are making a mountain out of a hole-hill, or vice-versa, for now your pile seems fairly high, although you don't seem to think it high enough. Some emotional restriction is passing into the discard, pretty rapidly; during December you will begin to see your ambitions take form and reality, as you receive help from friends, relatives, and those in authority who are now very favorably inclined to the forwarding of your desires. During the last two and a half years you have formed a pretty definite picture of what you want out of life, and it looks as if you are to be given an opportunity to achieve it. Toward the end of January, as Saturn passes from Aquarius to Pisces, and from your fifth house to your sixth, you will be given a chance to translate your well-formed image of happiness and success into practical action, and to bring it into being on a realistic plane. Whether this concerns a matter of the emotions or affections, or a matter of worldly interest and concern, or both (as it probably does), you will now come to the testing-point of your theories; the world in some way will be given to you on your own terms, to work out according to what you have been desiring; and, as Emerson said, "Beware your desire, for assuredly you will have it." Whatever image you have formed in the past of your life is pretty sure now to develop realistically; the restrictions, especially the emotional restrictions are dropping away.

SATURN IN PISCES

Work, Health, Employment.

The above-mentioned granting of desires will not come about without a good deal of work on your part, for now Saturn enters your sixth house of employment and entering as he does (Feb 15) under the favorable conjunctions of the Sun and Mercury, with a sextile to Uranus in your eighth, described above, he promises new fields of activity, with a chance for rather better remuneration than the type of work seems to deserve, through the good offices of an influential personal who is interested in you. This is a real chance for you, for although you may think that you are working in a more subservient capacity than you would desire or imagine yourself to be fitted for, yet in some way, this is a long stride toward your ambitions. It looks as if in the immediate past, you have formed a rather more grandiose scheme for the advancement of your wishes, as if, indeed, you expected, in some mysterious and magically manner to stride immediately to some great and glittering goal; and that now you are a little chagrined to find that "hard is the path and long that out of dark leads up to light." However drab this opportunity may seem, you must remember that it is after all the starting point in your road upward; Saturn works slowly, and ponderously, and makes you work, too for what you get, but he works surely, and he builds foundations of stone. In your sixth house, he tends to awaken you to the realities of the work-a-day world; he teaches you that nothing is accomplished without work; that even the most inspirational and glittering goals have their beginning in hard apprentice work; and that the hill of dreams, however far, and into whatever golden clouds it eventually reaches, has its foundations in earth. Saturn here will try to teach you that no inspiration is practical that will not stand the test of reality, and that whatever ideal goal a man may select for himself, he must before accept the terms of the earth as it is for his foundation. This is a time for work, and for work that is profitable in a tangible and worldly sense; and in general this is a very beneficial period for you to advance quietly and painstakingly toward the achievement of your goal, for during this time Saturn is met chiefly by good aspects. In March, your work takes on a mental quality; be careful now not to overwork, or become nervous through work; you may expect some increase of remuneration at his time, but avoid extravagance. Beware of discouragement under the square of Venus to Saturn at the end of April; you will feel obstructed and held back now, but this is merely a passing demon. This situation tends to recur slightly toward the middle of May; but you can translate this influence into concentration on the details in hand, and so minimize its influence. August 20 to September 23 presents a somewhat critical period; your mind will now tend to be imaginative, dreamy, discontented, and somewhat erratic; a relative is troublesome; and indeed all through October, more or less, you will have to guard against the bad effects of the Neptunian influence (see above) on your employment. Do not quarrel when Mars squares Saturn September 23, either with relatives or with those associated with you in employment.

With regard to health, this is a somewhat critical period; you must guard your diet, and watch out for overindulging in the pleasures of eating and drinking. This is especially true of the latter period dealt with above. Do not rely on any form of mental healing at this time; consult a doctor if you need one. Also, and especially, avoid nerve-strain and overwork, particularly April 22, May 13, July 19, August 20-31, and September 17—October 10. None of this is a dangerous influence on your health, but merely represents a condition in which you must exercise caution, remembering that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

JUPITER IN SCORPIO

Personal Finances Expenditures, Liquid Assets

Jupiter in the second house of your solar horoscope represents one of the most beneficial financial periods of the last twelve years, and because of the favorable aspects now, one of the best of your life. Especially during November, you will be given some opportunity to increase your income from private sources; a female friend is helpful; you may even expect a legacy, of no inconsiderable amount. In general, your purse will be full during this year, subject only to the exception that you will tend to flatten it through excessive expenditures. This influence of Jupiter in a Martian sign in your solar house of money must be considered at this time in conjunction with the fact that from December 12th, 1934 to July 29, 1935, Mars is continuously in the sign Libra, your Sun sign, where he presents a very unusual and persistent condition of raising your enthusiasms, making you exuberant, optimistic, and above all extravagant; and this is an influence against which you will do well to guard, for though Jupiter now tends to bring you money, Mars tends to take it away, either through your own rashness, or through the ill-advised and impulsive expenditures of an associate. Especially guard against this tendency March 3 to April 18; and to a lesser extent January 25, February 11-21, March 12, June 21, August 5-12. But although these are specific dates, when things reach crises in financial matters, as a matter of fact you must guard against extravagance and loss through unwise expenditures, during this entire period. After Mars leaves Libra, he enters Scorpio, approaching an opposition to Uranus (August 8-15) and a conjunction with Jupiter (August 21-31) and this critical time cannot be too strongly warned against in the matter of financial dealings. Especially August 8-15, a partner is likely to prove very expensive, and as Mars goes on and approaches Jupiter, both expenses and income will tend to mount; make sure that the former does not exceed the latter; beware of too great optimism in money matters, or you will find that in spite of financial opportunities this period will leave you little better off than it found you. As a Libran, you love to spend money in pursuit of pleasure, on nice things, on clothes and jewelry; it will be well to bear in mind that what is spent on luxuries cannot (alas!) be later spent on necessities; no matter how much you need them: it's hard to take a mink coat to the landlord and ask him to take it for rent. You can make this the most profitable period of your life, if you keep expenses down.

Jupiter here also lends support to the influence of Neptune referred to at the beginning of this delineation; you profit from secrets; enmities turn into cash for you; magnetic influences help you: at the same time, your imaginings tend to take on a more realistic tinge, to be somehow translated into terms of the world and your worldly progress.

It is very necessary to stress the two sides of this Jupiter influence that you are now under, for it operates almost exclusively in your department of finances. It is primarily an aspect of Gain, but the dualistic nature of Jupiter is such that he makes you extravagant at the same time that he makes you prosperous: you earn lots, but you tend to spend more; and for your own happiness and peace of mind, you must guard your finances very carefully, watching partners and yourself with equal care in the matter of expenditures. Remember that financial independence is the road to freedom, and that "Eternal vigilance is the price of Liberty."

MARS

The unusual condition of Mars in your birth-sign from December 12 to July 30 requires special mention. This is about four times as long as Mars usually stays in one sign, the condition being due this year to the slow and retrograde motion of Mars taking place in Libra. This is both a good and a bad influence; Mars is essentially friendly to the Sun, through which you now feel the persistent concentration of his rays; but he is unfriendly to the sign in which he meets the Sun, your own sign of Libra. You will feel all during this period conflicting waves of exuberance and depression, vitality and exhaustion, optimism and pessimism, as the aggressive waves of Mars first stimulate your Sun, and then exhaust him as the energy is spent. This vitality, carefully check-reined and guided into constructive channels, will bolster all the best and most aggressive sides of your employment situation (as discussed under Saturn) and of your financial status (as discussed under Jupiter); but if Mars is allowed to run rampant, he will upset things through rash speech and action, through hasty and ill-timed aggressiveness, through your own quarrelsomeness and willingness to let things get on your nerves. The key-note for the successful use of this force is Restraint: restraint in speech, restraint in action, restraint in emotions, restraint in expenditures. It is a time for self-control: remember that the free-running stream makes only an empty noise, but the fruit of the mill-dam is energy. Guard especially the profitless expenditure of energy on the following dates: December 17-26 (emotional): Dec 27—Jan 5 (physical): Feb 21—Mar 10 (temperamental): Mar 11—18 (emotional): April 9-24 (Mental): May 12-21 (emotional): June 1-10 (mental): July 17-23 (physical): July 30-Aug. 31 (financial). In addition to the above specific high-tension periods, Mars is to be warned against as the producer of extravagant tendencies of all sorts during this period.

MONTH BY MONTH SUMMARY

November 1934—Very active and progressive financial period; much help from friends, relatives, people in authority; some danger through enmity, but this can be made to redound to your credit; make plans, especially financial: avoid emotion and depression.

December 1934—Mars entering Libra begins the long stay described above; beware personal sensitiveness, high-strung-ness, quarrelsomeness. Middle of the month somewhat treacherous; lie low; later seek advancement and financial betterment.

January 1935—Watch out for Mars. Jan. 18-25 expensive; a partner bears watching; emotional matters prominent: be conservative.

February 1935—Expensive social life: emotional upset in business: don't mix business and pleasure now.

March 1935—Treacherous emotional time has repercussions on employment; watch nerves and health; finances good.

April 1935—A partner is quarrelsome; avoid disputes; don't indulge your personal whims; compromise. Gain through partnership, but this may slip through your fingers if you aren't careful.

May 1935—Good and bad oddly mixed this month; steer the middle course, avoid extremes; your position and finances prosper.

June 1935—Travel, write, seek publicity now; take a vacation if you can; you'll enjoy yourself at this time.

July 1935—Fine progressive month if you scorn the emotional fare-ups at the middle and end.

August 1935—Friends confuse and upset your financial matters till the middle of the month; you are your own best counsellor if you would avoid loss. Very extravagant forces at work.

September 1935—Private influence helps you financially; seek private advice: a woman is helpful, but a male relative seems to be interfering with your progress in employment. Treat this situation with tact.

October 1935—Very fine progressive month; you lay the ground work for progress, to which there is a brief threat toward the end of the month. Keep your head; this passes harmlessly if you do.

AMERICAN TRAGEDIES

The following observations should be helpful and instructive to students as illustrating the destructive effect of South Node contacts, among individuals, and also the major significance of degree areas and pre-natal directions.

THE LINDBERGH CASE

Hauptman: November 26, 1899; hour unknown. Mother's birthdate, June 9, 1865.

Lindbergh Baby: June 22, 1930.

And if you want an Ascendant that tells the story apply the Mother's birthdate system to this chart, Mrs. Lindbergh, born June 22, 1906—see page 57 of the November, 1933 issue of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY for detailed explanation of this method; furthermore, having calculated the chart by this method direct the chart by converse direction back to June 20, 1930, although, please observe, that major progressions are also quite significant.

Finally, on March 1st, 1932, the transiting South Node is found in 27/05 Virgo. Compare this with these two charts.

According to rules laid down by Carter in his excellent study of degree areas ("Encyclopaedia of Psychological Astrology"). Certain degree areas are indicative of HOMICIDAL TENDENCIES viz:

5 degrees—Aries—Libra
9 degrees—Mutables
17 degrees—Gemini—Sagittarius
0 degrees—Leo—Aquarius

Observe Hauptman's Mars, Jupiter, Uranus. Furthermore, we find indications of insanity. His chart calculated from the birthdate of his mother (born June 9, 1865) places his natal Moon 21/30 Virgo in close square to his natal Mercury and Venus 22 degrees Sagittarius—see Carter—"Insanity." Viewing that cross involving a twelfth house Neptune—not a sextile or a trine in the chart—all squares and conjunctions—no weakness there, just misdirected energy, the logical deduction from the above in view of the facts recently brought to light relative to his activities, is that this man may be criminally insane with an inferiority complex that seeks compensation through anti-social activities. Jupiter in Scorpio would naturally deify the individual Will. We have on our files a case of "Paranoia" bearing same data as that of Hauptman—Data—November 26, 1899—74 W 44 N.

THE MILLEN CASE

Murton Millen and Norma Brighten—two youngsters, who met in a whirlwind romance that in a remarkably short period of time landed three men in a death cell.

EDWARDS-McKECHNIE

As this is written a boy is on trial for his life in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., accused of murdering a young woman who had the misfortune to love him not wisely, but to well. And it is our purpose to show that this may easily be a natural result when two people who are basically inharmonious and mutually destructive drift into an intimate association and that condemnation or punishment is not only barbarous and unworthy of a civilized community, but also futile so long as such haphazard social conditions are allowed to exist.

Robert Edwards, born December 17, 1912; Mother born October 4, 1886; Father born October 5, 1880.

Freda McKechnie, June 20, 1907.

It must be observed with relation to the above that while the young woman involved had a chart that so far as aspects are concerned presented extraordinary potentialities for tragedy. This is not the case with Edwards. In fact, in his chart there are no afflictions, other than a separating square of the Moon to his Sun and Jupiter and if we consider only good aspects and the absence of squares, oppositions, etc., to be a basis for judgment, then Edwards' chart is certainly not a violent one, but—let us examine degree areas and we find something—observe the position of Edward's Moon, Mercury, Mars, Uranus also PRE-NATAL URANUS and PRE - NATAL MARS—six points of contact with Homicidal degrees. In addition we might call attention to his Natal Saturn—conjunction the Pleiades—a definite threat of judicial execution from which under the circumstances it will be most difficult to escape,—if at all. It behooves one with a chart like this to "avoid even the appearance of evil."

We hasten to add that the fact of having these degrees occupied does not necessarily indicate that the person involved is destined to pursue a career of crime, murder, etc. These areas are necessarily prominent in many charts and are frequently emphasized in the charts of notably successful people, but under destructive environmental influences the natural tendency would probably be to seek an escape by violent means. Just another point that stresses the importance of scientifically correct environmental conditions and associations. Under the proper (Harmonious) environmental stimulus the same tendencies that may otherwise express with destructive violence may lead to proportionately great achievements and success. The darker the shadow the brighter the light.

Further, with regard to these degree areas, and quite apart from any destructive tendency in the individual we have observed that there appears to be a generally violent area around the 7th degree of cardinal signs. It is positively amazing how frequently this area crops up in the charts of crimes and disasters of various kinds—in the charts of Earthquakes, storms, accidents, etc., in addition to the purely criminal chart. The charts herein given are cases in point, refer to the charts of the Lindbergh Baby, also the Horary chart for the kidnaping. March 1st, 1932. Again we find it in both the Millen Charts—see Mars in chart of Murton Millen and the Moon in that of Norma Millen. Finally reference to the chart of Freda McKechnie furnishes abundant evidence so far as the first Decan of Cardinal signs are concerned in addition to the conclusive testimony in the chart of Robert Edwards. If further evidence is required, let any student select at random any number of such events and we venture to say there will not be one that does not bear this stamp in some form. However, the distinction must be made between this area and those commonly indicative of homicidal tendencies. The Cardinal signature is as frequently found on the horoscope of the victim.

It seems to be a fairly well established fact that any emphasis on this point in the Horary figure for a disappearance or other similar event may be accepted as conclusive evidence that the victim has met with foul play. On the other hand when found in the chart of a suspected murderer, it may be accepted as a reliable indication of conviction, at least insofar as such may imply Judicial execution—violent end—Otherwise it may indicate accidental death. However, there is an element of Personal responsibility involved here that may be interpreted as an indication that the individual in question is directly or indirectly the cause of his own death. We might call attention to the fact that it is significantly absent from the chart of Hauptman—will they convict him of murder? probably not.

Referring to the Millen case, we find this Cardinal Area occupied in both charts with the emphasis on Mars in the chart of Murton Millen—evidently an ego-centric complex—but observe also the position of the Moon in the chart of Norma Millen. In view of such testimony it is to be sincerely hoped that she will accept past experience as a guide to the future.

So far as Robert Edwards' chart in relation to that of Freda McKechnie is concerned, it must be admitted that the comparison does not in itself furnish conclusive evidence of basic inharmony. It is true there are two South Node contacts, but these are rather wide and indefinite and to off-set this, we find a North Node contact with Edwards' Neptune that is close and well defined. As a matter of fact, it appears that this relationship, which commenced in September 1929 was harmless and harmonious enough, before the advent of Margaret Crain, late in 1931. It would therefore be interesting and probably much more instructive to compare the horoscope of Robert Edwards (and Freda McKechnie) with that of Margaret Crain. It is more than probable that therein will be found the key to this tragedy. This, of course, casts no reflection on Margaret Crain. She also was deceived by her emotions and a victim of circumstances over which she as an individual had little or no control. In the last analysis the responsibility for such crimes rests solely with Society.

We have a tentative birthdate for Miss Crain gleaned from a study of the newspaper reports, which is however, advanced as purely speculative and unconfirmed. This date is April 8, 1910. If any reader can furnish a correction or verification of this date such information will be greatly appreciated.

This was evidently a crime of impulses and weakness—almost to the point of being accidental.—Persons with (so-called) good horoscopes frequently get into jams like that. A few squares would have helped him out probably. For strength of character let us have squares and oppositions every time.

At 11:30 p.m., July 30th, the whole destinies of three persons—the very life of one—and perhaps of two—turned on an infinitesimal point of decision. It was as though these lives were suspended over an abyss by the slenderest spider thread of causation and some whimsical demon—a vagrant impulse—carelessly brushed that thread aside and sent all of them plunging into an eternity of woe.

It is interesting and instructive to compare the above charts with those of another similar case. That of Earle Peacock, born June 24, 1907 (compare with Freda McKechnie) and Dorothea Peacock, February 9, 1909—another crime of passion and impulse.

Finally we may call attention to a curious fact that has been forced upon our attention of late. This refers to the prominence of Sagittarius and Gemini (in the older named) in the events of the present period. This is particularly true of events that have involved an element of misfortune or tragedy. Can this be due, at least in part, to the transit of Neptune through Virgo—which was incidentally powerfully stimulated by the Lunation of September 8th?

This accentuation of Sagittarius has even commanded attention in our professional practice. During September among those who contacted this office personally or by mail for assistance with their problems, Sagittarius predominated out of all proportion to the other signs—with Gemini second.

ASTRAL INFLUENCE

Question: I want to ask you, if you believe, from your experience in humanity and Astrology, that the stars and signs influence one in a cold, mechanical way, in a way of saying "the sign make one" or do you believe in the reincarnation idea which would, speaking Astrologically, be equivalent to saying the "Man makes his starry destiny," and that he's not born until the heavens are sufficiently arranged to insure an influence which harmonizes with his true inherent, innate character? Of the two opposed problems voted above, I can't accept the former, while the latter—incarnation—has me skeptical when viewing things from different points, science, religion, etc.

Answer: For a detailed study of the Rationale of Astrology according to our conception thereof we cannot do better than refer you to certain past issues of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY.

One should NOT approach the problem presented by an individual chart with the idea that this chart is probably a cosmic error—an incorrectly arranged pattern—and subject to change in order to make it more practical, workable and harmonious. Nature planned that chart and so far as Cosmic purposes are concerned nature makes no mistake. That Horoscope, as you find it, is a complete, exact and perfect expression of the laws of governing manifestation at the time for which it is erected and a perfect individualized expression of Natural Law in relation to the individual who happens to be born at that time,—an individualized Cosmos. The problem of the individual is not one of personal reformation, but rather Fulfillment, through environmental readjustment.

One of the most pernicious doctrines that was ever "foisted" upon Astrological student is the doctrine of bad aspects and adverse planets. The most that can be said for the theory of adverse aspects or planet is that such planets (or planets so placed) call for the exercise of the Will and much self discipline. Such problems are distinctly Human problems, created by Human Reason, which places man on plane of Personal responsibility. separate from or above the ordinary animal plane. Man by virtue of his intelligence—wider mental (or spiritual) horizons—and divine prerogative of choice ever has open before him two alternative or opposite courses of action and the higher the status of the individual on the evolutionary scheme the more intense does the conflict between the positive and negative tendencies become, this is the price we must pay for progress. However, in a cosmic sense there are strictly speaking no bad aspects or adverse planets,—every aspect and every planet has a specific function that cannot be dispensed with if the purposes of evolution are to be fulfilled and every planet must be expressed where it is. If, for instance, you have (in your birthchart) Saturn in Cancer, even though it be also sadly afflicted, you cannot move it from that sign—there it must remain. The expression, however, may be constructive or destructive, this much IS under the control of the individual and strictly a matter for individual choice. Naturally the individual exercises his prerogative of choice according to his light—his understanding—which is the result of a composite influence from environment, his hereditary strains, etc.

When two planets are placed in signs, in square aspect or in opposition, the effects may, in some instances, be unpleasant from an individual point of view, when the individual through ignorance or wilfulness—the result of unhealthy hereditary or environmental influences—goes counter to the law of his own nature. He will find that, he cannot break a natural law but he can ignore it—then the law will break him.

Iron is made to float in water not by setting aside the Law of "specific gravity" but by complying with it—by an application, in fact, of the same law that under natural conditions causes it to sink. Similarly an individual may conceivably become Healthy, Wealthy and Wise by an intelligent application of the same law that under conditions, spontaneously produced by nature, may keep him in ill health, poverty and ignorance. It is all a matter of first understanding and properly formulating the law with which we are dealing and then so specializing the environmental conditions under which that law operates as to produce the desired effect. In this work of formulating these Natural Laws governing personal expression. Astrology and the Horoscope can be a most valuable aid for therein nature has furnished us with a complete and mathematically correct pattern for character formation,—literally a blue print of Destiny—a Destiny that cannot be evaded but must be fulfilled in one way or another—if not constructively then destructively; that much is up to the Individual.

It this "Fatalism"?—yes—and no. We must try to grasp the conception that it is not what happens or what conditions we may have to meet that is so important, rather it is how we re-act to those conditions and what application we make of them for on this depends the ultimate effect of the event upon our Lives.

You cannot control the weather, but you can control your reaction to and manner of meeting climatic conditions. Even so, you cannot control the Stars in the sense of nullifying those Cosmic Laws of which they are an expression. Thus you cannot avoid meeting the Conditions revealed by your Horoscope, but you can control your reaction to them and application you make of them and on this, strictly speaking, depends the Ultimate Good or Evil of the Event. It is Results that count.

A person may drown when not properly trained or equipped to deal with the Watery Element. Similarly a person may freeze when not properly prepared to live in a cold climate. On the other hand, people so trained or so equipped may have a wonderful time Swimming, Skating, etc., and thus derive pleasure and improved health from the very same condition that may bring Tragedy into the Life of another. It is all a matter of UNDERSTANDING the condition which you are dealing with—knowing the Law of that condition—and then SPECIALIZING the circumstances under which the Law operates. Forewarned is Forearmed. An adverse condition foreseen has by that very fact lost a large part of its power to injure. Returning to the analogy of the swimmer—we know that even a good swimmer may drown if thrown unexpectedly into the water far from land when not properly prepared to meet the test, but if he were to enter that condition deliberately, after proper preparation he might draw from the experience both pleasure and profit.

The Planets do NOT represent EXTERNAL FORCES governing your Life, but rather do they SYMBOLIZE BASIC PRINCIPLES and LAWS of Nature manifesting in the terms of HUMAN NATURE as your own inner tendencies to THINK, FEEL and ACT. Thus you are SYNCHRONIZED with the Universe in which you Live. All the Powers of the Universe are POTENTIALLY in YOU—and in every other ORGANIZED UNIT of Creation,—even as every drop of Water from the Ocean is a miniature Ocean. The only difference is one of degree. You control your STARS when you control YOURSELF.

ASTROLOGERS

Question: In your October issue page 17 you mention that Mr. Burton N. Brooks of New York estimates that out of 10,000 Astrologers in New York there are only 15 good ones.

Will you let me know the names of 15 good Astrologers?

I am very anxious to know them by name. Also please let me know their birthdates. I would like to cast their horoscopes and find out if they really are good. The horoscope is the basis of everything.

Answer: My dear Sir—why pick on me—I didn't say it. I would suggest that you get in touch with Mr. Brooks. He probably knows. "All I know is what I read in the papers" ("excuse it please," Mr. Rogers), but I think that last sentence of your question is rather cute.

BIRTH DATA

Tom Mooney—December 8, 1882. Hour not known.

Adolf Hitler—April 20, 1889. Hour generally accepted, 6:30 p. m. Brannau, Austria.

Wynn (Sydney K. Bennett)—February 10, 1892, 9 a. m. T.L.T., Chicago, Illinois.

BOOKS

Question: Is there any work published which gives analysis of the various aspects, not only between the planets, but also within the twelve signs; that is, a book very detailed, planned for students. If so, I would appreciate receiving the title and where it could be purchased.

Answer: We can recommend "Students Text Book" by Vivian E. Robson. However, it is rather difficult to be specific in this connection. There is much to choose from, even though the choice is limited. There is not, in our opinion, on the market today, any book that deals adequately with House positions.

It will be well worth your while to look into the Brotherhood of Light Courses, and, of course, as far as aspects are concerned, "Astrological Aspects," by Charles E. O. Carter, is second to none.

CALENDAR

Question: I note that you have the dates wrong for so many of the signs. I have many books on Astrology, the most expensive books I can buy, and they all agree with Cancer starting on June 21st, which begins the Summer Solstice. I refer you to Bide's First History of England, in which all the arguments in regard to changing the calendar are given. The dates on the calendar were changed, but, of course, the signs fall correct. The signs had a two days' difference on the calendar, making Cancer start June 21st and end July 22nd. You will find that every authorized calendar backed by all government computations has this date June 21st, to July 22nd. My sweetheart was born June 21st, the first day of Cancer 1885; I was born January 3, and, of course, this is almost perfect, Capricorn being the generalizer in business plans and Cancer in the home relations. It has proven so between us and I am furious that your horoscope book, after ten years of perfect harmony in our relations, should even cause a discussion of the matter.

Answer: The time when the Sun enters each Zodiacal sign varies slightly each year, but this variation is merely a matter of hours, though it may in some instances account for a variation in the date for different localities.

For instance, in the case of a person born in June, 1885: The Sun entered Cancer June 21, 6:57 a. m. Greenwich Time, but on the west coast of America the time was then 10:57 p. m., June 20, whereas in June, 1934, the Sun entered Cancer June 22nd, 2:48 a. m. Greenwich Time which on the west coast of America was equivalent to 6:48 p. m., June 21st, but in Japan the time was noon of June 22nd. Obviously for the purposes of a general guide we cannot allow for these variations otherwise than by accepting the latest time that we know will apply in all localities and for all years, plus a consideration of the fact that the influence of the preceding sign is undoubtedly projected to some extent over the first degree or two of the new sign. We do not believe, for instance, that the Cancer influence comes into full power and complete manifestation at the precise instant that the Sun transits into this sign. People born at a time when the Sun is in transit from one sign to the next are rightly considered to be subject to a combined influence of both signs.

It will, therefore, be found the dates given in AMERICAN ASTROLOGY for the commencement and termination of the period of Solar influence on each sign throughout the year are for all practical purposes correct.

I am truly sorry that this misconception on the part of your Cancer associate is causing you trouble, but after "10 years of perfect harmony," it is difficult to believe that this could be more than a temporary unrest. After all, Sun signs alone are far from being an adequate foundation for personal harmony. It is probable that your relationship is founded upon some other contact—the Nodes, for instance (see page 18 of the April, 1934, issue of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY).

COLOR PSYCHOLOGY

Dear Mr. Clancy:

Please accept this criticism of the article on "Psychology of Color," by Amie Thomas. Having been a student of Esoteric Astrol- ogy and Symbolism especially in reference to color, I am just wondering why you have published this as an authority on Color Psychology.

Your magazine reaches many people, and for them to be misled is not in keeping with your clever magazine. Libra—the Balance—symbolizes the attuning of cosmic Forces—What better represents that than the Diamond and Opal. The Positive Blue belongs to Jupiter or Sagittarius—the negative—for the earth or the higher spiritual belong to Jupiter—Purple Pisces, Jupiter, Saturn—Blue—Deep Blue, Pisces (Blue going into Purple), Violet—Purple which is the higher vibration of Jupiter in its spiritual aspect. To Libra—belong all harmonizing colors a blending or balancing. I need not remark in that one article she has contradicted herself—Blue, yes, is a sedative and will not make a room look smaller or larger—always restful, and as orange has the next vibration to red—is a balancer—relieves blue. But not for Libra people. They need a mixture of many combinations like in the Opal and Diamond—in other words, a blending. Coral color good. Most Librian are function in the Green Ray—the Earthly ray in color—and need the more subtle color to bring forth the possibilities within Blue—would make them too negative and orange too arrogant.

V. B. J.

P. S.: Have you ever heard of or read the "Symphony of the Zodiac"; Macoy Publishing Company.

Answer: The above letter is self explanatory and is published not only for its instructive value but also for the definite purpose of correcting any possible misconception that may exist in regard to the article referred to or in regard to any other article in AMERICAN ASTROLOGY.

It is unfortunate that people so often do believe that, because a statement appears in print, it must necessarily be the last word on the subject under consideration. Such is far from being true and it becomes less so as research penetrates deeper and deeper into the unknown. Even in the most select scientific circles modern investigators are battering their way into the very "holy of holies." Old concepts are being shattered daily and authorities innumerable are being bowled over like nine-pins, and as we ascend by a spiral path the mountain peak of Human Evolution, a widening horizon must necessarily dwarf into relative insignificance forms which hitherto upon close inspection may have appeared to be of tremendous importance.

The best we can do is to present the facts relative to any matter as they appear to us, hoping thereby to furnish other students with data and suggestions that may be of assistance in further research and more detailed investigation.

Miss Thomas, in the article above referred to, no doubt presented the subject of Color Psychology from her personal point of view, but if such viewpoint is found to be at variance with the facts as determined by more exhaustive research, then we assume that she will readily revise her conclusions.

DISCONTENT

Question: What are the chief influences as per sign, planets, and, of course, aspects, which makes one "complexed" by a sort of inward unrest, discontent and morbid thoughts, oftentimes loathing of everything and the self also—are these caused by retrograde planets chiefly or aspects, or—??

Answer: This is a mental state, that so far as I have observed seems to be definitely correlated with Neptune afflictions. This planet (under affliction) is decidedly cynical, morbid and conductive to a sort of chronic discontent.

Furthermore, there seems to be a tendency to manifest the above traits even under a temporary affliction, though Neptune may be well placed and well aspected in the natal chart. However, as may be expected in this case the pessimism will not be very deeply rooted and the individual will bounce right back into a land of idealism and beautiful dreams just as soon as the affliction passes. Of course, when we inquire into the causes (whether of the temporary or natal) we are in deep water. It will probably be found in the physical organism, but to ask whether the physical condition causes the mental condition or vice versa is quite like asking which comes first—the chicken or the egg. In the last analysis the key to the problem will probably be found in the (Endocrine) glandular link between the mind and the body.

You are urged to secure a copy of Carter's "Encyclopaedia of Psychological Astrology" wherein you will find valuable suggestions relative to this and many other similar problems.

As a serious student of Astrology, you should secure as soon as possible these three books by Charles E. O. Carter.

EPHEMERIDES

Question: Is there any way of calculating the planets' places by sign for the future? I understand no ephemerides are published more than a year ahead, hence my asking.

Answer: There is available an ephemeris published in Germany giving the planets' positions 1930 to 1950, price $10.50. This can be obtained from the Harmony Book Shop, 108 West 49th Street, New City.

GEOCENTRIC ASTROLOGY

Open letter from Mr. Johndro

to

The Readers of American Astrology.

Dear Sir:

A few weeks ago a student wrote to me as follows: "As you recommended Paul Council's charts I take it that you accept his determinations instead of your own method of determining longitudes."

I replied that I had neither seen nor endorsed Mr. Council's map. In reply to this the student wrote: "I hardly think it worth while to look up the published statement made over your name in the magazine of Wagner, or some other magazine to which you contributed, in which you recommended Council's star map; but I have it and if someone slipped one over on you, sweat it out for yourself."

Now as I have not written for any magazine during the last few years, except for the National Astrological Journal since early 1933; and as I have made no mention of Council's findings in the N. A. J., it is apparent that the student is mistaken.

In view of this hearsay that I endorsed a work unseen; in view of the fact that a copy of Council's star map has just come to my observation in the last few days, and in view of the semi-controversy appearing in your magazine between Henson and Council, I think it only fair to your readers to publicly squash the above by giving them my real views of Mr. Council's findings in so far as warranted from his map and his reply to Henson in your October number.

I may say at once that if the examples cited in my earth in the heavens do not meet and refute Council's proof of his base to date, then it is doubtful if omitted evidence, and the subsequent tests made by me and the many students using my text, would carry any weight with my critic. And if there must be controversy over it I prefer to let students of my work define it against the Council innovation.

As I have found no reason, to date, to change the Greenwich base given in my text, I cannot personally endorse a map that assumes a base some $7\frac{1}{2}$ degrees farther east; but readers of my text are assured I will publicly announce any change, if ever made, and will either withdraw the text from sale or supply it with any correction of my own endorsement.

Referring now to the Council map I call attention to its "Table B," wherein the R.A. rate of change in precession is given as $57''5$ for 1930. Both this and the secular change in that table are too large if the actual astronomical records mean anything over the period when these observations agree. Moreover, this "Table B" gives the ecliptic precession as a constant and the R.A. precession as a variable. Though in Fact Both Values Depend on the Solution of the Opposite Sides of the Same Spherical Triangle.

However, what is more important about "Table B" is that he intimates its values are based largely on "an ageless doctrine of an orbital motion of the Solar Family in the Plane of the Ecliptic around its central Sun." But such a motion is not proven, and even the best informed who concede it possible are not as bold as Council in dogmatizing the rate of such motion. Moreover, and this is more vital, as the geocentric and heliocentric zodiacs are respectively defined by the actual positions of the Sun and Earth of the date, they are independent at all epochs of an "orbital" drift of the solar system as a whole. Still further no motion of the solar system as a whole "In the Place of the Ecliptic" can cause any precession of the equinox. Precession can be caused only by one or both of two things: (a) change of the equatorial plane to that of the ecliptic plane, or (b) change of the ecliptic plane relative to the plane of the equator. All astronomical data agrees with (a), and inseparable to it is the polar motion. Hence the "ageless doctrine" does not justify "Table B" even with its errors.

Be that as it may, there is one fact the reader should know. It is this: My approach to the riddle was by way of assuming anything and everything as successive hypotheses in order to assume nothing. That is, I worked out my "Table I" of cites with midheavens and ascendants in duplicate for every few degrees of the zodiac as a Greenwich base. And with these and interpolative tables I tested each of the 360 degrees as a possible Greenwich base in the light of events and history around the globe. And after long years and by elimination I in 1928 published the base that best bore the brunt of evidence.

Naturally, then, this base Council has seized upon with self zeal is one of the 360 tried and found wanting by me. But like a few dozen other bases it will seem to satisfy many isolated and "hand-picked" cases or tests, but it is not so hot when tested by any and all cases without partiality as to their place or nature.

I may here state that no one of the examples given in my text on the subject was "hand-picked" to make evidence by discrimination. They were chosen at random and compiled for the first time when writing the text in Jan.-Feb., 1928. None of them was a part of the mass evidence used prior to compilation in establishing the base. The number of bases tested accounts for the many years given to the problem.

Now unless Mr. Council can show he has given an equally adequate time to 360 different test bases for Greenwich, I for one fail to see how his conclusions can be other than a hasty willingness to believe in his findings simply because they are his own. Certainly it is the mathematical task I have cited could not be covered by any one man in a few months or a year or two.

If, now, Mr. Council rushes to his own defense to claim he has for long weary years tested this particular mundane problem at issue between us, and to an extent comparable to my careful approach, then when the reader scans that defense I ask him to refer to page 62 October AMERICAN ASTROLOGY, and read the following Council admission: "as you know, I have done practically nothing in the way of applying the new geocentric astrology to mundane activities, so I feel free to say that I do not know much more about the celestial genesis of earthquakes than I did before. The italics are mine. This is a rather fatal admission. The admission of taking the responsibility of publishing a theory he admits he has not comprehensively tested. Yet at the same time he does not hesitate to don the mantle of authority as a quake expert in order to try to meet Mr. Henson's article.

Once again, in the same October article, bottom of page 10, Mr. Council takes issue with my two ways of directing, and repudiates both of them. Why, then, did he see fit to "lift" one of those equations from the earth in the heavens and, by printing it on his star map under "Examples," be so unfair to his sales customers and to a fellow author? Surely if Mr. Council was hasty and ill-considered, so that endless further untruths will be necessary to support the fundamental untruth of his Greenwich base. Surely he will agree with the reader that if he is to test my Greenwich base he must stick to my measure of directing the resultant figures.

At the time of publishing my text in 1928 it was announced that a world map and a U. S. map based on it would be issued if or when the demand justified it. The demand proved too small to entail the expense.

The two divergent bases on such a matter but add to the prevailing astrological confusion. For the student there is no way out save to duplicate effort and try all theories offered and abide by their own discovered proofs. Students should test Mr. Council's notions fully. Gladly I leave it to the fuller test of time and numbers as to whether they finally agree with him, me or someone else to be heard from. I refer readers to the November issue of "Canadian Astrology" for an excellent and easy example for comparison.

Thanks would be due Mr. Council for his map reference to my text, were it not that a franker repudiation of it would have been better taste in view of his star map, "as is."

While Council's rebuke to Henson for centering his calculations at Calcutta is warranted, I leave Henson to accept the Muzaffarpur center (and environs) and to make an even better case of it. He has shown himself capable of exemplifying my text without going far afield for the place of event to do it. It will be noted, however, that Council in criticizing Henson for using 88.24 E, instead of around 85.27 does not hesitate to go too far west (83E) and thus repeat his opponent's error. Both should quit "straining" and stick to the press clippings.

Meanwhile the reader must remember that life and truth is as each sees it and there is no such thing as "proof" to another before his appointed time to see it. It is also well to remember that any dunce can start a controversy as easily as a sage, and that many astrological debates are provoked for the purpose of obtaining free instruction from the "defendant." Much as I deplore the confusion arising from the difference between Mr. Council's findings and mine, there is other work to do, and it is not my business to run a school of either astronomy or mathematics to teach what critics can learn for themselves from the texts of kindred sciences available to all at small cost.

Very truly,

L. EDWARD JOHNDRO (signed)
1435 Meade Ave.,
San Diego, Calif.

We gather that Mr. Johndro does not entirely agree with Mr. Council—Astrologers are like that—Just one big happy family.

We think that in fairness to AMERICAN ASTROLOGY and by way of setting forth our views on this matter we should publish our reply to Mr. Johndro—as follows:—

Dear Mr. Johndro:—

Acknowledging your very welcome letter of October 1st, of course, I will gladly publish your "open letter."

AMERICAN ASTROLOGY has no axes to grind and holds no brief for anyone—myself included. Our only purpose is to present to students anything, that, in our opinion, may contribute to the advancement of Astrology.

Sometimes a friendly difference of opinion may stimulate healthy growth—has it not been said that “conflict is the very essence of life?” However, I think we owe it to ourselves to eliminate all traces of bitterness from these discussions. Time and effort is of no consequence to a truth-seeker, so long as he may be privileged to get at the truth of the matter. Whether this calls for the work of years or minutes in the last analysis that which stands the acid test of practical application must endure and that in itself is a scientist’s reward—about the only reward they ever get it seems, but they also seem to be satisfied.

In conclusion permit me to assure you that AMERICAN ASTROLOGY respects your efforts and achievements and anything that we may reasonably do to assist you in bringing your findings to the attention of others please consider us at your service.

Yours very truly,
PAUL G. CLANCY.

HITLER

Quoting Arthur Brisbane, New York American, Tuesday, August 21, 1934:

“Events move quickly. Four years ago Hitler, born in Austria, was not even a German citizen, and last Sunday the German people, by a vote of approximately 38,000,000 to 4,000,000, approved his assumption of the Presidency, following Von Hindenburg’s death.

“Hitler is today the world’s most powerful ruler in control of a great nation, as regards his ‘legal’ powers. There is practically no limit to them.”

NOTE: Uranus in transit over his natal Sun did a good job. Now all he needs is a transit of Saturn to ring down the curtain.

HOUSES

Question: In the General Forecast for Scorpio, you said that Jupiter in Libra was in the twelfth house ruled by Neptune. On the other hand, you said Jupiter was the ruler of my second house. I am such a novice that the above is very confusing, and I don’t know the proper interpretation to put on it.

Answer: A Solar Horoscope accepts the Sun position as the Ascendant or first house. Therefore, a person born when the Sun was in Scorpio would have Scorpio governing the first house of this Solar chart.

Sagittarius ruled by Jupiter is the next sign (anti-clockwise) to Scorpio, therefore, would occupy the second house of this Solar chart. Libra, the sign immediately preceding Scorpio, would occupy the house immediately preceding the first, that is to say, the twelfth house. Therefore, Jupiter in transit through Libra would be in the twelfth house (Solar) and would rule the second house (Solar) of Scorpio.

This might indicate an invisible mysterious or secret source of supply—intangible wealth—“treasures in Heaven,” perhaps. A good position for a Christian Scientist. It is a fact that such people do seem to have an uncanny ability to literally pull money out of the air. Such a person never really suffers privation, yet may appear to exist more by the “grace of God” than by any other means, and this configuration is not in itself conducive to wealth—too impractical, as a rule, or, at best, careless with money.

We might call your attention to further reference to a twelfth house Jupiter, page 22 of the September issue of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY.

KARMA

Question: I have a natural chart, Aries on the Asc. and five Planets in the Fifth House with the Dragon’s Head, what does this signify in the way of Karma?

Answer: There are, I believe, various methods for determining Karmic tendencies by reference to specific houses. One method which appealed to me as most interesting correlated the past with the Fifth House and the future with the Ninth—or was it the other way around?—in any case it makes little difference because I defy anyone to prove that either is correct.

This whole theory of Karma has always appealed to me as a sort of psychological trick resorted to by gentle and sensitive souls as a convenient escape from a cruel world. As an alibi, it leaves absolutely nothing to be desired. It solves all of life’s problems at one stroke, and relieves the individual of the unpleasant necessity of squarely facing the facts of Life. People who find themselves in utterly intolerable circumstances, yet who haven’t the nerve to solve the problem in a practical manner can evade the issue very neatly by charging it up as a Karmic Debt—anyway you cut that—to me—it is still—well I doubt it very much—yet I can be convinced. I have changed my mind before, but at present I take my cue from the dying philosopher “one world at a time brother.” I prefer to solve my problems where and when I find them and the sooner the better.

Any mention of Karma naturally involves a consideration of Re-incarnation—as popularly understood—Just a glorified game of “blind man’s bluff,” so far as I am concerned. I believe in the continuity of Life and principle—that there is something in every individual that goes on—and one—infinitely—but, not necessarily or even logically limited to this earth or this plane of consciousness. As an example of the absurdities into which these theories can lead otherwise intelligent people. A person of my acquaintance reports that on a recent trip around the World he met 18 reincarnations of Socrates—I've been told I look like him myself.

However, if you like this idea of Karma the entire Horoscope may be said to be a Karmic pattern.—I would rather say hereditary pattern—but it presents a problem that you must tackle now. It will eventually be found that the problem and the solution are one and the same. Find one and you therein have the other. Every disease is its own cure and within every problem will be found (as one of the factors thereof) the key to its solution.

LIFE CYCLES

Question: What are the special characteristics, if any, of a person whose ascendant falls on or near the same degree of the same house on which he has his natal sun? Would this second 28-year lap form a more or less distinct repetition of the preceding one?

Answer: The Sun on the Ascendant would simply produce a solar personality—a personality temperament and disposition similar to that of Leo alone. You might find our "Solar Horoscopes for Leo" helpful to an understanding of this—price $1.00.

The second 28-year cycle is, of course, the same as the first, essentially—insofar as causal conditions are concerned, but the personal reactions to these conditions—hence events—would be quite different, since during the second cycle the personal reactions would be conditioned by the experiences of the first cycle.

Note: A later communication from the person who asked the above question brings out an interesting point in this connection.

Question: According to what you say here one must conclude that the influence of the ascendant, though second in importance to the influence of the solar nativity, maintains its relative intensity and could therefore either increase or decrease in relative effectiveness according to how the character has been modified by past experience, i.e., made either more or less susceptible. But I have seen it stated repeatedly that the influence of the Ascendant receded with advancing years, so that the original solar characteristics become more and more dominant. Will you please elucidate further?

Answer: This brings us to the consideration of Planetary cycles. It is said that the Moon dominates infancy, but that the Sun becomes the dominant factor after the 35th year.

We have long held to a system of planetary cycles that differs widely from that propounded by ancient texts, yet which seems to have much to substantiate it upon close investigation.

We divide the life into seven-year periods as follows:

- 1 to 7—Ruled by Moon
- 7 to 14—Ruled by Uranus
- 14 to 21—Ruled by Mars
- 21 to 28—Ruled by Mercury
- 28 to 35—Ruled by Venus
- 35 to 42—Ruled by Sun
- 42 to 49—Ruled by Jupiter
- 49 to 56—Ruled by Saturn
- 56 to 63—Ruled by Neptune and, logically, one might assign the next seven years (63 to 70) to Pluto.

The above table of cycles may be used as a guide to conditions prevailing during any period of their life by reference to the natal chart and to the planet (its position and aspects) governing the particular cycle under consideration.

LITERARY ABILITY

Question: Could the (usually) smiling Jupiter have any effect upon my success in business life, beneficent or otherwise, under these conditions. Sagittarius rules 10th, Jupiter is retrograde in 8th, in sign Scorpio which rules 9th and Moon, Mercury, Saturn all oppose Jupiter from 2nd house, and Uranus from 11th square Jupiter. Would this mean my hopes for any rise in business of any sort and my 2nd house benefits to be derived therefrom, are literally shackled in the "house of death"? I am only asking, I know nothing much of business experience, and have no great hopes for same, but only want to know according to the stars' say-so "in case" I changed my mind. I want you to pass judgment on my delineation of my chart's indications in relation to what I want to do as a profession—I want to write; literature, especially "mystical," appeals very strongly to me. I have Pisces rising, its mystical ruler Neptune in the 5th house (pleasures) moon rules 5th and is in 2nd, Mercury rules my Sun sign Gemini, is in 2nd, and Saturn, which is also there, rules 11th, hopes and wishes. My Sun is cadent in 3rd (weak? or does the Sun vitalize even a cadent house?), but, to make the 3rd house influence stronger, my Gemini is on the "powerful" 5th angle. As I said, I've always been influenced by literature and feel the urge to write, but so far have only felt the "urge." Can you see any connection between the trio in 2nd, Mercury rules 4th and End of Life or aspirations, Moon rules 9th or pleasures and Saturn rules 11th or hopes and wishes and Saturn being in 11th possibly adds some of the "mystical" tang to my literature taste. I'm only mentioning the above factors for two reasons—1st, to get an idea if they coincide with my true aspirations, which I've related and to get your opinion of what you think those configurations would mean in relation to my destiny as a writer.

MYSTIC DABBLER

Answer: The second sentence in your question stops me—you say "Sagittarius rules the 10th." How do you know it does—answer that and I'll answer your question. But, I must have reasonable proof. Until that is forthcoming, I must ignore all references you have made to house positions in your chart.

So far as literary ability is concerned, have you anything in the 15th degree of Gemini? If you have, you're probably a literary genius, otherwise — well, if you like writing well enough to write for nothing, go to it, because that is what you'll have to do anyway—genius or no genius. Of course, many people write for publication who do not have this degree occupied (columnists for instance) but we were speaking of literature and literary ability. If you love the Muse—very well—then you must write, but I warn you—she'll break your heart. However, has it not been said of Love, "All the other pleasures of life are not worth its pains"? Verily 'tis the truth.

I would suggest that you obtain a copy of Carter's "Encyclopædia of Psychological Astrology" (from any Astrological supply house). This book is literally a gold mine of reliable information and invaluable to the serious student who is interested in facts rather than fancies. As a guide in Vocational Astrology it is in our opinion second to none.

MERCURY-VENUS

Question: In Raphael's Ephemeris for 1873 we noticed on December 25th Moon square Venus, Moon square Mercury. No other aspects. Does this mean the person would be prominent in old age or in poor circumstances? One of us thinks it has some bearing on the love life. Will you comment on it, this has all of us arguing about something we little understand.

Many thanks from a cluster of serious
BEGINNERS

Answer: These aspects would not in themselves be interpreted as having any special significance regarding circumstances in old age.

Much depends on whether the chart be masculine or feminine. In a man's chart Lunar aspects refer specifically to domestic affairs, but in a woman's chart it is more directly concerned with health with special reference to the female functions. Venus in affliction is also adverse for health, usually indicating some derangement in the organic structure or functions. However, Venus is specifically the planet governing the love life—symbol of the "social urges." In a man's chart it indicates the type of women who are attracted to him and in whom he is interested. In a woman's chart Venus indicates her attitude toward the opposite sex and her reactions in the social or love relationship.

Venus squared would in either case render expression difficult or spasmodic and usually in a somewhat negative, harmful or perverted form. It is necessary for such a person to concentrate upon the development of the most constructive qualities of Venus with regard to the sign in which it may be placed, for the natural tendency would be to neglect these requirements and seek compensation in self-pity when desired results are not forthcoming.

The same would apply to Mercury under affliction—a tendency to talk too much and think too little. For a detailed study of the significance of these planets you are referred to our booklet, "Planets" (price 25c) and the October, 1933, issue of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY, page 56, wherein we discussed the "Alphabet of Astrology" in considerable detail.

MOON'S PHASES

Question: Referring to your August "Message of the Stars," page 22, column 1, what do you consider the most advantageous phase of the Moon to be born in?

Answer: I do not consider that any particular phase of the Moon is most advantageous in a general sense, but each has its particular advantage according to the purpose of the individual life and the individual planetary pattern. The advantages peculiar to each phase must appear evident from our study of the Lunar cycle in our August issue.

MYSTICISM

Question: What house and sign indicates more than any of the others what I term a tendency to mystery—i.e., Occultism, Detective, Mystery Stories, Astrology, etc.?

Answer: Pisces, the 12th House and Neptune, are definitely correlated with these matters, and probably more so than any other sign, house or planet, with due respect to Scorpio the 8th House and Pluto.

I believe Scorpio Pluto, etc., is more definitely indicative of the scientific aspects of mystical pursuits, which permits us to make a distinction between mysticism in its more religious or devotional aspects and occultism as a more scientific investigation of metaphysical matters. Pisces may be more comprehensive in scope but Scorpio really penetrates deeper and such knowledge as he possesses will have more practical value. Yet there must be a Piscean influence to give interest in the purely mystical trend. Scorpio otherwise may apply his penetrating mind to chemical (scientific) research or social research or reform. Scorpio is more often the detective, although I have found that three signs, Scorpio, Capricorn and Pisces, figure in this. Successful detectives often have all three linked up in some definite manner and I have found Mars in Capricorn to be the most certain indication of detective ability.

PERSONAL APPEARANCE

Question: Please tell me if there's anything real and concrete in "the signatures of the Zodiac," i.e., of the effect of ascendant upon one's physical build. Does each sign have a definite trait or type of feature to stamp upon one through the ascendant and is the ascendant the chief influence in physical design? Please tell me if anything has been printed on the ascendant with actual pictures or photos showing effects of the "Zodiacal designer" of bodies.

Answer: The rising sign should accurately describe the individual with respect to Personality, temperament and Disposition, modifying factors being the sign position of the ruler of the Ascendant and planets in the first house.

The closest approach to your requirements re: pictures, or photos descriptive of the various planetary types—appears in Alan Leo's works. Some very fine work along this line is also being done by William J. Tucker, 15 Roseleigh Ave. Highbury London, England.

Finally, researches being conducted by the Brotherhood of Light are also valuable in this connection. Results of latest findings may be obtained upon application to Brotherhood of Light, P. O. Box 1525, Los Angeles, California.

PRIMARY DIRECTION

Question: Is there anything to the effect of a different degree from one's ascendant at birth, coming to the ascendant angle by progression? Does the "Nero ascendant" supposedly cause any perceptible change in one's temperament, and any change in the physical build—How often does the new sign progress on an average, to ascendant?

Answer: It is generally accepted as a valid method of progression (known as Primary Direction) to rotate the signs clockwise at the rate of approximately 1 degree to the mid heaven per year. This changes the ascendant at approximately the same rate although owing to the angle of the Ecliptic to the Equator we have signs of apparent long and short ascension giving a wider variation in the rate of Ascension.

It has been observed that the ascension of a new sign does apparently coincide with a decided change in the personality, temperament and disposition.

It requires, on an average, anywhere from 15 to 50 years for a full sign to pass the cusp of the first house. Locality (Latitude) may cause this period to vary widely and according to the sign involved.

PROGRESSION

Question: I'm studying Natal Astrology and find it sensible and reasonably sound, but can't seem to find a satisfactory method of prediction. I cannot see any sense whatever to the so-called "progressed" horoscope. It seems to me that common sense would tell one that the effect upon you now depends upon, say Jupiter, being located in the sign Libra, where he is now instead of anyone out of a dozen possible "progressed" sign positions, according to Jupiter's place at your birth and his place by "progression."

I can see where Jupiter could possibly influence one if you set up a chart which will show Jupiter's position by sign or the desired predicting date, and I can see some influence from Jupiter by his aspects to his brother planets, and to your "enchanted" natal planets' places—to illustrate my quandary, I'm 23 years old, Jupiter is retrograde in 6/ of Scorpio at birth, alright 6/ Scorpio is an enchanted "contact point," I set up a "progressed" for '34 and come to see that Jupiter what with retrogressions, etc., (and the progressed horoscope) has only moved a few degrees from its natal place. Now to my notion, my Jupiter influences me now, if at all, from Libra in accordance to Libra's natal house place in my chart, and by the transiting Jupiter's aspects to the other planets, and possibly the natal "enchanted" spots. If you can vouchsafe any plausible explanation as to this "day-per-year" calculation business and can't see how such a system can come to mean anything scientifically when it doesn't give the planet's places, and hence the range and degree of influence (?) at all for the future.

Answer: So far as I am concerned, my friend, you have answered your own question.

Now, just drop a line to Wynn, Carnegie Hall, New York City, and he will explain to you a system that literally is made to order for you.

Personally, I agree with you up to a certain point,—but,—now don't get nervous, I'm not trying to sell you anything—I have known cases where progressions did work quite well. Astrologers in their frantic fanatical support of pet theories are often somewhat reminiscent of the person who could not see the forest for the trees.

Question: Would you also kindly explain, either in your reply to this letter or in your magazine, exactly what is meant by "progression" of planets and how one can figure such progression. How is it distinguished from, for example, the present position of the planets, from the natal position of planets, and how can one explain progression of so rapid-moving a body as the Moon?

Answer: Progression is based upon the theory that the planetary positions and aspects immediately following birth may be a factor in determining the character and destiny of the child. C. C. Zain (Brotherhood of Light) compares these post natal influence to the winding of a clock or the charging of a battery, whereby in a few seconds energy is stored to be released gradually over a period of hours. In the case of progression energy is accumulated in a few days, which is released over a period of years.

Progressions are calculated in various ways. That method most generally used accepts one day after birth as equivalent to one year. Hence progressed positions for the 30th year would be found by reference to the 30th day following birth: with special reference to the aspects of progressed planets to the natal planets.

Primary directions of the Angles of the chart accepts four minutes following birth as equivalent to one year and an entire life of 60 years would be directed within a period of 2 hours following birth. This method is less practical by reason of the usual uncertainty regarding the Hour of birth.

Finally we are indebted to the Brotherhood of Light, for a system of Progression that, in our opinion, is very satisfactory indeed, we refer to Minor Progressions, whereby one Lunar cycle after birth is equivalent to one year. We cannot attempt to go into this method in detail at this time, but those interested may obtain full details regarding this system upon application to the Brotherhood of Light, P. O. Box 1525, Los Angeles, California.

In conclusion we cannot omit mention of Pre-natal directions (sometimes called converse directions) whereby the above methods are applied in reverse order:—counting backward from the birthdate instead of forward. This system is sound in theory and has in our experience given much more satisfactory and consistent results than primary directions or progressions—so-called. In fact the best combination appears to be Pre-natal Directions and Minor Progressions. It may eventually be found that there is a definite and direct correlation.

RETROGRADE PLANETS

Question: Where can I (if possible) find work on the effect of retrograde planets, describing the psychological effect from each planet, by sign, and maybe effect of the retrograde planets was dealt with rather thoroughly and would like to read some real investigation data, compiled from experience.

Answer: You may profitably study two articles by Rudhyar in recent issues of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY wherein the subject of retrograde planets was dealt with rather thoroughly.

Refer to page 3 of our May, 1934, issue and page 3 of our June, 1934, issue. There also appeared a detailed discussion of this phenomena of planetary retrogression on page 22 of the March, 1934, issue of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY.

RUSSIA

Neptune certainly took the center of the stage in September.

Reference to page 30 of the September, 1934, issue of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY may reveal to the student much hidden significance in a certain events of major importance that occurred on September 18th, when Russia formally entered the League of Nations.

It is not deemed necessary to quote from our previous statement (above referred to) since those interested who do not already have a September issue may readily obtain same upon application; price 25c.

However, a statement by Litvinoff, Soviet Foreign Commissar, is enlightening:

"The Soviets are entering the League so representatives of a new social and political system and without renouncing any aims."

Verily, the hand-writing is on the wall and in language that all can understand.

SATURN

Question: Referring to my own natal chart: would Saturn 18 degrees in Scorpio and almost square to the Sun in 12 degrees Leo, along with an ascendant in 22 degrees Capricorn produce specific difficulties at any special time of life?—constitute a double saturnine taxation as it were?

Answer: This would, no doubt, as you say, produce a heavy "saturnine taxation" whenever Saturn by transit or through association squared or opposed your Sun from Taurus or Aquarius and this would probably manifest directly through your House of Friends with the ultimate effect of striking in your financial department—unfortunate business associations—losses through friends, etc. It would be necessary for you to exercise much caution and discrimination in your choice of friends or business associates at such times and also exercise more than ordinary degree of unselfishness and faith. The greatest danger from a Saturnine affliction comes through "fear" and second defect is "short-sightedness."

SEPTEMBER 26TH

We have all noticed that certain days seem to be productive of much more than the average number of events of some specific nature.

For purposes of Astrological research such apparent coincidences are most valuable and should not be ignored.

September 26th, 1934 is a date that stands out as one of strange import—A day characterized by many peculiar events in which an element of violence was combined with mystery in a way that suggests a Mars-Neptune mixture. October 2nd, is another date that also merits careful study.

Students of Astrology may profitably study the following events in the light of known Astrological configurations in force at the time bearing in mind that only planetary contacts exact on the date under consideration may be considered.

Headlines culled at random from the morning papers of September 27th pertaining to events of September 26:

Lindbergh Case—Hauptman's gun found—also secret cache of ransom money. The most damning evidence so far against this man.

Murder—Lillian Gallagher—born September 26th, 1923 left home afternoon of September 20th to canvas house to house was seen entering building 68 W. Warren (six blocks from home) at 6:45 p. m. September 20th. September 26th—body found—murdered—strangled—mutilated, stuffed in trunk in Apt. 41—68 W. Warren St., suspect a musician with a criminal record.

Accident—Ada, Ohio—A light sedan plunging from road after it had side-swiped a truck carried five women to a flaming death.

Death—New Orleans—Body of 17 year old boy who had been missing from his home in Elizabeth, N. J., for a year found floating in Canal in New Orleans with his neck broken, manner of death a mystery.

Radium Theft—Police searching for a thief (believed to be a boy) who stole a vial of Radium from exhibit at Century of Progress. An attempt to open the container may cause death, etc.

Sentence of Death—Ohio State Supreme Court over-rules an appeal and decrees that Harry Pierpont (pal of Dillinger) must die in the electric chair October 17th.

Bombing—Havana—a huge bomb rocked downtown Havana—no casualties— Revolutionary Party announces it is planning vigorous protests if members arrested for distributing anti-government pamphlets are not released.

Riots—Havana—Threats by rioting workers to burn vessels plying between Havana and New York sends hundreds of guards to the docks with orders to shoot down disorderly characters attempting sabotage.

Dock workers situation in Havana at a dangerous stage.

Crime Conference—Summoning of a National Conference of Crime to be held in Washington early in December (something never before attempted) announced by Attorney General Cummings.

International Affairs—Maxim M. Litvinoff Soviet Foreign Commissar, dropped bombshell into the League of Nations with a letter to the President of the League Assembly requesting a report from Arthur Henderson, British Chairman of the Disarmament Conference, on the results and future prospects of the Conference—British deeply shocked—will demand Soviet envoy be ruled out of order, etc., etc.

Politics—New York—Democratic State Convention opens at Buffalo.

Nothing much happened, however. Most of the delegates went to the Zoo or Movies or someplace else—anyway the news reports that the Convention got off to a poor start and that it "assumed the aspect of a wake for an unknown corpse." Truly an interesting statement in view of the general trend of events on this date and it is further interesting to speculate on just what opening of the Convention on this day may presage for the Democratic Ticket in New York State.

Ship Launched—Clydebank, Scotland—

The British chose this date to Launch the "World's Largest Liner" QUEEN MARY herself christened the ship and gave to it her own name. It is reported that the new ship took the water in as nasty a day as Scotland can produce. A heavy grey rain fell steadily from dark skies but the launching took place without mishap. However it would seem that a better day could have been chosen.

It is recalled that the last time Queen Mary officiated at the launching of a ship (36 years ago) the event was attended by disaster. This refers to the launching of H. M. S. Albion, June 21, 1898 at Blackwell. The present Queen then Duchess of York, christened the ship which upon sliding into the water displaced a huge wave that drowned fifty persons.

Meteors—Boston and California—The extraordinary phenomena of a giant meteor visible in broad daylight over the Northeast coast and a shower of Meteors is reported in the South West. One narrowly missing a passenger plane according to the Pilot's report.

All things considered it appears that "The flash of mystic light from that weird planet" referred to on page 30 of the September issue of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY did manifest in a great variety of ways and the September Lunation conjunction Neptune marked this distinctly as Neptune's month with September 26th was evidently the focal point.

SIGNS

Question: In the August number of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY magazine, in the article "Quotation of Dr. Henry J. Gordon," the former Austrian physician states: "The German leader, Hitler, was born under the sign of Saturn, in the 10th house," etc. I note you refer to Saturn as a sign. I have studied horoscopes for many years and to me the symbol "♄" is used to represent different houses or divisions of the Zodiac, and Saturn and all other planets are the influences in these different houses. But in common terms of Astrology planets are not referred to as "signs." There is some confusion as to whether you infer the sign would be Capricorn or not?

Answer: This was a quotation verbatim from a daily paper and I did not personally refer to Saturn as a sign. The news reporter attributed that remark to Dr. Gordon. However, now that you mention it, I do not believe Dr. Gordon said that either (certainly I hope not). What is more probable is that the reporter got his wires crossed. This frequently happens, I am told, and especially it is of frequent occurrence when occasion demands that Astrology be given publicity. However, I would hesitate to say that such inaccuracies are deliberate.

Hitler has Saturn in Leo and this generally accepted birth-time places Saturn in the midheaven.

STALIN

In a recent issue of an Astrological magazine there appeared an article relative to Russia, which included among several horoscopes that of Joseph Stalin, giving the date of birth as January 2, 1880, 8:16 a. m.

Just what the source of this information may have been we do not know, but we are inclined to think that it is somewhat open to question.

So far as the hour is concerned we will pass that up. That probably comes under the category of Spiritual Mathematics—clear out of our reach—but the date is something that we should be able to establish with reasonable certainty.

However, we think that in the publication of data—especially data so specific as in this case—the author owes it to his readers to furnish reasonable proof of its authenticity by stating the source of his information. If for instance the hour given is purely speculative (as it is 999 times out of 1,000) then it should be so stated; in order that students may not be misled or confused and so that they may avoid wasting time and effort trying to find something in the chart that probably is not there at all. The general neglect by Astrologers of the above simple requirements for a scientific approach makes for futility in all Astrological practice and inevitably retards the normal development of Astrological science.

We have always accepted December 21, 1879, as the birthdate of Stalin, and the January 2nd date could only be based upon the assumption that the December date is according to the old-style calendar—adding 12 days to December 21 gives us January 2 of the following year. However, upon reference to the 1934 edition of the Russian Encyclopaedia, we find that Stalin's birthdate is given as of 1879, but no date. However, the 1934 Russian N. S. Calendar gives his birthdate as December 21, 1879. We are informed on authority of the Librarian in charge of Russian Literature, New York Public Library, that Russia adopted the new-style calendar during 1917-18 and that the December 21st date is definitely the new-style date and that Stalin's birthdate old-style was December 9, 1879.

Therefore we submit the following corrected data for the Russian dictator with the assurance that it is as authentic as such information can be:

JOSEPH STALIN—Dec. 21, 1879
Gori, Province of Georgia (Russia)
Hour not known

TRANSITS—PROGRESSIONS

Question: Please tell me if one should use the Radix chart (Natal) in watching transits, or should you "progress" the chart to the present? If the "tree-of-life" radix is so permanent, seems to me the progressed one is not to be used: however, tell me which is right, as per "law of the game"—

Answer: Personally, I always attach much more importance to a transiting aspect to a natal planet than to a progressed planet, although I have also had brought to my attention several instances where a transit in relation to a progressed planet seemed to be definitely effective. This is particularly noticeable in the case of the Progressed Sun.

Message of the Stars

General Indications

NEPTUNE

Reprinted from March, 1933 of American Astrology, readers may find this article additionally interesting at this time in view of the developments of the past 18 months and may further find herein an aid to a true perspective on the present and future.

DIVINE JUSTICE

1928 to 1942 inclusive NEPTUNE, the Idealist, is in Virgo and in its own SEVENTH HOUSE sign. This will naturally tend to focus the dreams and ideals of Humanity upon Social problems, which have to do with the status of the individual as a Social Unit through relationships that place the individual upon a basis of EQUALITY with his environment. This includes Marriage, Business Partnerships, Citizen Rights as expressed through Legal Activities and the Social Structure as a whole.

Neptune may be considered to be the higher octave of the Moon (material Consciousness) and also of Mercury (Directed Thought) for it is the planet of INSPIRATION, combining both the mental receptivity of the Moon and the creative thinking ability of Mercury. Considered as the higher octave of the Moon, Neptune becomes the symbol of the focus of SPIRITUAL CONSCIOUSNESS—the PSYCHIC FACULTIES by which man becomes aware of forms and conditions in his environments which are imperceptible to the five physical senses, but the significance of this Planet is not wholly psychic. It is true that Neptune symbolizes forces which are very elusive and not readily detected by the physical consciousness and that through this center man becomes conscious of the forms and conditions of the Psychic Realms—the Invisible Worlds—but this planet also symbolizes a power by which we become aware of any material (physical) conditions that are secret, mysterious or in any way peculiar or far removed from the ordinary trend of humanity.

This is the Utopian urge that gives man a vision and spurs him on to the attainment of an ideal condition of life which may at time be so far removed from present circumstance as to give little hope of ever being more than just a vision. Because Neptune is symbolical of forces which are above or beyond the plane of the average, only those individuals and social groups who are developed mentally and psychically beyond the average ever experience any appreciable effect from the transits of this planet. Those who have advanced ideas of life, who are strongly individualized—idealists—and such as may be psychically sensitive or of a mystical or devotional turn of mind, respond readily to Neptune.

In Virgo, during the period mentioned above, Neptune may be expected to give Humanity as a whole a vision of a Social Structure quite Utopian in design. During this fourteen-year period, we may expect stupendous developments in the Social Consciousness of Humanity and correspondingly vast changes in the Social and Economic Structure. Many of these changes will be beneficial and result in progress; on the other hand under the influence of Neptune, the Dreamer and Idealist, there will, no doubt, be the usual crop of impractical schemes and an unusual amount of wild-eyed fanaticism in evidence. When Poets write the Poetry of a Nation and Lawyers write its Laws—all is well—we may not make much progress, but, at least, we are safe—but—when Poets write Laws and Lawyers write poetry anything can happen. This is just one of the many strange and peculiar things that can happen when Neptune gets into the Law Courts of Humanity and starts monkeying with the Scales of Justice. The worst that can happen is that Law, as a rule of conduct, may cease to exist or this influence may utterly destroy the confidence of a People in existing Laws and Law Makers with the result that Social Chaos prevails. This is likely to be the result in many sections of the World under this influence.

Neptune, the natural ruler of the twelfth House—that department of the chart which governs the Lower Classes, the down-trodden members of Society, the Underworld in the Department of Justice (Seventh House), might constitute a rather sinister influence upon the Social Consciousness of Humanity presaging a Social Upheaval with some ghastly results unless certain readjustments are made. It reveals a disposition on the part of those who are opposed to existing conditions and Social Institutions to seek Freedom and, as a means to that end, to seize the reins of Government and by subtle, indirect, secret or underhand methods force changes in existing Laws to make them more in harmony with their desires and relieve them from some of their grievances. This might be alright were it not for the fact that as Neptune symbolizes the Idealist of the highest order and most highly devotional ascetic, who lives a life of self-sacrifice in a condition of extreme purity; in its negative aspect it symbolizes the other extreme of utter depravity, the human dervish, the social parasite, the criminal, insane and all other avowed enemies of Society and real progress—those whose one passion is to destroy what is, without offering anything constructive to replace what they have destroyed.

When Neptune takes command we have an exhibition of Mob Psychology at its worst. Frantic rebellion against oppression and bitter hatred for the oppressor moves men to the most diabolical cruelty carried out with consummate cunning. Because Humanity, as a whole, as its present stage of evolution, is still most receptive to the more negative psychic forces and unhealthy destructive influences from the Shadow side of Life, it is probable that the average person may, in his social relations, manifest that phase of Neptune which is deceptive, tricky, treacherous, depraved, and which inclines to shady practices of one kind or another. Hence, coincident with this transit of Neptune through an angle in the World Horoscope and the gradual rise of this planet to the Midheaven, we may witness a growing disrespect for Law manifesting as a Crime Wave of prolonged intensity and alarming proportions. A Spirit of Rebellion will be abroad among the Nations of the earth. Communism, as a principle of Government, is likely to come more and more into Public favor and we shall see Russia rise in Power, for Communism is distinctly a Neptunian form of government. The Dragon of Anarchism already stirs in its slumbers. The unthinking Masses, the great multitude of Human Cells in the Body Politic, sometimes referred to as the "common herd" are tiring of their yoke. They are only waiting—for a Leader. The best that can happen is that they may find a leader who is wise enough and strong enough to save them from themselves.

It may be added that as Neptune in Virgo is now the controlling factor in personal, national and international relations. Under unfavorable influences it is distinctly a symbol of Broken Faith—deception and Treachery. Beware of the charming stranger whose background you have not thoroughly investigated and under this influence it seems that alliances and contracts are only made to be broken. It is intention that counts with Neptune and we are told they make an excellent pavement. Eternal vigilance is the price of Safety when Neptune rules. The Planet of Pacifism, but a strange contradictory creature—while he preaches Pacifism he Arms for War. Mussolini has the right idea. We are impelled to question what may happen to the Pacifists and Disarmament Conferences when Mars conjuncts Neptune, November 11th, 1934. It would seem probable that Russia may have something to say about that—with Mars involved, actions may speak louder than words.

URANUS

New Standards

"It is a vision waiting and aware
And you must bring it down, oh men of worth.

Bring down the New Republic hung in air.
And make for it foundations here on earth.—Edwin Markham.

Uranus, in transit through Taurus during six months (summer months) of 1934 and from 1935 to 1942 is in its own Fourth House sign and will be principally significant of anything—any event or development—that pertains to the foundations of the Social Structure, also the living conditions of the people. Conditions of Land or Country considered purely as a locality—wherein the people are subject to natural forces—such as terrestrial disturbances, floods, earthquakes, mining disasters, etc., etc. Circumstances, conditions and events governing Real Estate, Mines, Buildings (Housing) Farm Products and the development of natural (unusual) resources.

Among other things and when Uranus is positively stimulated this may be expected to coincide with the discovery of Rich mineral deposits in hitherto unsuspected areas. Science will probably find a new source of power in the Earth and some great colonization project may be expected to get underway and along this line may we call attention to the fact that the "Eyes of the World"—are gradually but definitely turning in the direction of South America? Also rapid and astonishing development of Agricultural Sciences. Finally the Social Sciences, which directly involve a study of Eugenics heredity, etc., may be expected to make rapid strides. Medical discoveries tending to a prolongation of the average life span and improvement of Racial strains will come out of this. The recent agitation regarding Birth Control.

Nationally this is the House of "Patriotism" and we may attribute the rapid growth of Nationalism throughout the world to the transit of Uranus through this area of the Zodiac. This will, no doubt, reach its maximum of Power and intensity in 1940 and 1941—what an explosion that will be. At present a Spirit of radicalism Rebellion is rampant the world over and it will increase in power and intensity throughout the next seven years.

Politically this development is significant of those who cooperate with or openly oppose the government—the opposition in a political campaign and the Political Party in apposition to the Party in power. Incidentally while on the subject we may as a result of this transit, look forward to some sensational political "upsets" in 1936. The Party in power will probably go down to disastrous defeat.

In a narrow sense this department is in a Court of Law indicative of the Jury—that cooperates with or defeats the purposes of the Court which is governed by the tenth House.

Finally, this department more than any other, is more significant of weather conditions, and we may look for some extraordinary and extreme and unseasonable weather whenever Uranus is stimulated by positive planets or aspects.

SATURN

The Tax Collector

1933 and 1934 Saturn transits Aquarius and this being the Second House sign of Saturn, we could naturally expect this transit to improve a Saturnine influence upon Business conditions.

Saturn is fundamentally an organizer and disciplinarian—tending to exert rigid control over the department he rules and ordinarily a constructive influence, but at times when Saturn may be under negative influences can be expected to exert a depressing influence upon Business. It tends to limit Public Expenditures, either through doubt and fear or through an actual limitation of the Purchasing Power of the people. This would naturally slow down the circulation of money and tends to decrease earnings (of individuals and companies hence Investment Interests, particularly those of a speculative nature) suffer and for the above reasons should be the controlling factor in the markets of the World during this period tending to depress prices generally, but specifically at those times when Saturn may be rendered additionally negative by the influence of the negative planets. Under the influence of Venus Saturn "takes profits"—if any.

Under the influence of Positive Planets, Saturn in this department tends to raise prices—we pay "more for less" and quoting from the April 1933 Issue of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY "Saturn in Aquarius may be expected to sympathize with the Progressive urges of Uranus and we may expect some more or less startling innovations in the Economic structure of society—some radical departings from established custom and a drastic revision of traditional concepts of economic problems."

Subsequent events have proven this to have been fairly accurate forecast.

One thing seems to be assured—that when Saturn finally leaves Aquarius and completes a sextile with Uranus in the winter of 1935, we will have a brand new set of Values—a new economic standard. In the meantime all our fretting, fuming and impatience cannot hasten or retard this development to the slightest degree "Though the mills of God grind slowly . . . with exactness grinds He all."

JUPITER

New Frontiers

Jupiter transits Scorpio, October 10th, 1934 to November 9th, 1935 and as stated on page 29 of the October issue of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY, this has specific significances for all forms of Social Service—Public Protection or condemnation. This presages the great expansion of forces for National defense—the Army, Navy also Civil Service Department, in General, Secret Service.

Large scale developments in connection with Organized Labor, Unions, Organizations for the discipline, control and benefit of the Workers of the World and also for Social upliftment, through Labor Unions and also through Hospitals, Charitable movements or Institutions. Possibly medical discoveries tending to improvement of Public Health, also some brand new instruments of destruction—military secrets—for the destruction of life during the next war—not far distant.

This department also governs the Police Department as guardians of Law, order and the personal safety of citizens, hence, Penal Institutions (the inmates thereof) benefit by this transit although under unfavorable negative influences, Prisons and Penitentiaries may be overcrowded. The negative tendencies of Jupiter in Scorpio tends to adversely affect Public Health, tending to wide-spread epidemics. Also there may be crime waves proceeding from this at various times and such crimes will, no doubt, for the most part have a financial motive although this may under certain influences incline to Political or Religious fanaticism resulting in the assassination of National leaders, who are summarily removed with the best intentions in this world, under the mistaken impression that the underdog is thereby benefited.

Under this expansive influence Limitations and restraints tend to be released. Old Frontiers are moved—outward—and new boundaries are established. From this center shall proceed the Faith and Wisdom that will permit mankind to safely pass a crisis in Racial development. Jupiter in Scorpio says "Preparedness is the best guarantee of Peace"—Just watch this armament Race—ships, submarines, airplanes, etc. and standing armies will be increased beyond anything we have hitherto known.

Incidentally while we are on the subject of war, all things considered—it will be a wonder if Mars in Libra (December, 1934 to July 1935) does not start something but this would only be of brief duration—a temporary flash. The next major conflict is not due yet.

NOVEMBER 1934

The month of November is Astrologically in striking contrast to October and a comparison will be helpful.

October with four oppositions (five if we include Mercury opposition Uranus September 30th) was distinctly a month of conflicts and separations. A month that called definitely for compromise and conciliation, but in our modern age of intense individualism and Nationalism, a true spirit of co-operation is difficult to find. Hence, not only were many important matters brought to a culmination and conclusion (opposition an aspect of fulfillment) but many associations and partnerships of long standing were dissolved. A month when International relations were greatly strained but also many individuals along in intimate associations reached a parting of ways.

November (commencing October 27) we find to be exactly the opposite (plus)—with eight conjunctions distinctly a month of reunion, regeneration and rebirth. New associations and organizations will be formed and many important matters will get underway—and such as may be launched between October 27th and November 11th, stand an excellent chance of success.

The majority of these conjunctions (five of the total of eight) occur early in the month being focused right around November 6th—the date of the Lunation and also of the U. S. State Elections.

Many political factions hitherto separated may be reunited as a result of this election. Whatever the result from this point of Parties or individual Politicians this election should definitely mark the commencement of a new cycle in the National Administration and specifically—a New Economic Era. Distinctly a “New Deal” month—naturally much depends upon the individual interpretation of the words “New Deal.” However, Scorpio and Virgo predominates and Neptune the Idealist (Socialist) holds a key position all things considered this election may be summarized as a victory for Socialism and one result should be a vast improvement in Business conditions.

The Lunation of November will place a tremendous emphasis upon Jupiter in Scorpio. A study of this influence and forecast based thereon, the reader is referred to the analysis of Jupiter in Scorpio given above and also to page 28 of the October 1934 issue of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY.

Venus, conjunction Sun November 18th, is a somewhat tragic note in an otherwise pleasant period.

This conjunction square Saturn presages Public Sorrow. The deaths of notable people—social leaders—and those connected with the arts seem to be particularly affected.

On the West Coast death may strike in a manner that arouses great public concern. Individuals and localities directly under the influence of Scorpio and Aquarius (last decanate of either sign) are in line with this configuration. This calls for patience, faith and foresight.

Another danger point is over the North Atlantic—a violent storm or other maritime disaster may result in heavy loss of life and the death of some notable person whose passing has a profound influence upon World affairs.

Finally in Moscow we find trouble with a Foreign Nation but it looks bad for the other fellow—Russia comes out on top here—who's running this League of Nations anyway?

Toward the end of the month (around December 1st) Japan will have something to say, but we can take that up later.

THE MARKET

Following a break around October 22nd—we shall expect November movements to be as follows:

Rally—October 27th to November 11th.

Decline—November 12th to 21st.

Rally—November 22nd to 30th.

Peak—November 11th.

Bottom—November 18th.

Peak—November 30th.

We shall expect the High Point of the month to be November 11th.

Bond Market—should be very favored up to November 11th with a sharp decline indicated around November 18th.

Food, Stocks, Oils, Chemicals and amusement stocks will probably be among the leaders in the Market this month.

We could mention certain individual stocks that, in our opinion, look very promising from the Astrological point of view,—but we won't—there's a reason—and it has nothing to do with any desire on our part to withhold this information. However, subscribers may have this information freely upon request.

For November, 1934

An HOUR GUIDE for every day, by which it is possible to determine the BEST HOUR of any given Day, for commencing or consummating any specific undertaking.

By acting at the RIGHT TIME, we reduce the chances of error to a minimum. It must be understood that each influence becomes effective several hours in advance of the HOUR given, but decreases in power very rapidly after passing that hour. The extent of this interval varies widely for the various Planets involved. The Hours given may be accepted as a reliable guide if you will time your actions and decisions to be made as closely as possible to the Hour given. If it is not possible to act exactly at the Hour given then a time should be chosen which is Earlier rather than LATER.

ARIES

The Month of November for Those Born March 21 to April 19

October 30 to November 6

The passage of the Sun through the Sign Scorpio, ruled by Mars, gives the month of November a kind of affinity with Arians, who are also ruled by Mars. They may at this time utilize to their highest power the more cooperative side of the Martian influence, which, as it comes through Scorpio, is somewhat more tactful, and less rampantly individualistic, than the Arian Mars. This first week is especially promising to Arians in matters of finances and employment. You may now go ahead strongly in all matters relating to these departments of your life, for everything favors their satisfactory development. The planet Mars is now working up to the conjunction of Neptune in the sign Virgo, representative of the sixth house of your nativity, and you may therefore expect strange, and very profitable and possibly very sudden developments in matters of employment, since this conjunction receives the support of several major planets in Scorpio. If people are working for you, they may become obstreperous at this time; be careful that through misguided generosity you do not pay them more than they're worth. This warning is good more or less for the entire month, and in all matters: finances prosper, but there is also an extravagant tendency at work of which you will do well to beware.

November 6 to November 13

The focus of forces at this, the new moon, is in the fourth house of the horoscope, throwing the square aspect to the planet Saturn in the Seventh house; therefore it is to be expected that personal and domestic matters will occupy you during this period; also matters of partnership and marriage, with especial respect to finances in those relationships, are under severe strain. You may now be put under very heavy expenses, both at home, in business, and in any matter that deals with other people and yourself working in collaboration. Someone in your environment is likely to be ill, and to cause you thus the outlay of money. But the money is likely to be coming in now, and this is helpful. At the same time, you are under severe strain; it is a good time not to allow things to get on your nerves, but to go along the normal way of life without too much excitement, doing the day's work, and refusing to worry or be upset by trivial, or even by apparently important, matters.

November 13 to November 20

This is another week dominated by the square of the Sun to the planet Saturn, this time with the moon activating the aspect by being in conjunction with Saturn in the eighth house of the chart. Avoid all social and emotional matters during this week; mental activities are best: read, write letters, study, correspond, but keep your emotions from getting involved if you possibly can. The illness of someone dear to you is a matter of great concern and worry; you should prepare yourself against unfavorable developments, for in matters of emotion, as in all other matters, forewarned is forearmed. If you have any dealing with younger people this week, you are likely to be hurt by them; and you can hardly fail to lose money at this time, if you trust financial dealings to anyone else. This is a week for profound conservatism in all financial matters, emotional matters, and dealing with other people; but a good week for work, for getting things done, and for winding up ventures of long standing.

November 20 to November 27

This is the full moon, starting November 20th, and you may now expect the development in the world of realistic affairs of whatever has been going on in the last two weeks. This is a good week in which to push strongly matters of your credit and position in the world, seek advancement, especially in financial matters. A brother now proves helpful, quite to your surprise; matters of employment prosper; you should now be getting more work, and more pay for it. If you have anything to put on paper and get before the world, this ought to be a splendid time to do it, for those in authority will favor you now. Write, correspond, read, and study; domestic matters are happy and prosperous, but as always this month, you must guard expenses, which tend to mount up on you. Curb your individualism and seek to cooperate this week for the best results of a remarkably good influence.

TAURUS

The Month of November for Those

Born April 20 to May 21

October 30 to November 6

When the Sun passes through the sign Scorpio, in opposition to your birth sign, there is always a month of ebbing vitality, and a general feeling that things are going wrong. This is accentuated this year by the fact that Saturn is transitting in Aquarius in square to your birth sign, and therefore this entire month, though it will bring you activity, is above all a month to guard against discouragement and depression. You will be thrown socially, and also in a business way, with many people, some of whom will be helpful to you, and some irritating; and you should strive to guard against becoming irritated, for this will only react unfavorably on yourself. Personal matters will occupy you, especially this week; also romantic and sentimental considerations; younger people will prove exciting and interesting, but troublesome; there will be some tendency to romance, and an excess of social enjoyment which will wear on your health and vitality if you let it. In business, this is a time when you may make some very fortunate contact; a man will prove helpful to you; a proposition of partnership or association should be accepted gladly.

November 6 to November 13

The full moon falling in square to the planet Saturn on your midheaven, ruling position and credit standing, inaugurates a very full, busy, and exciting month for you, full of rapid developments in regard to your advancement. You may now taken action, diplomatically, and tactfully, in an effort to derive benefit from your associates, who now are anxious to help you, but need your cooperation and diplomacy to make headway. There are obstacles to be overcome too, but the stakes are high, and it will be worthwhile to forget your stubbornness and obstinacy, and bend the neck a little to the powers that be, for in this way you can lay the groundwork for great progress this week.

November 13 to November 20

This week brings much into the light with regard to your position and credit; things which have been working for you more or less under the surface come to light now with a very remarkable, and somewhat unexpected proposition, for you. Under these influences, things seem to happen to you, in spite of your feeling that everything is awry. Do not let the ebb of vitality which you feel keep you from grasping the opportunities that come your way now, for it looks as if someone is more eager for your advancement and well-being than you are yourself, and as if the chief drawback now to your best interests is found in your own somewhat apathetic attitude. Although you cannot successfully push things now, you can express a willingness that other people push them for you: the keynote here is Cooperation; you must lend a hand in this enterprise, if it is only a matter of moral support that is needed. Do not now become involved in emotional matters; above all, do not seek to mix business and pleasure. You are involved in exciting and absorbing social activities; be sure you do not give too much of yourself, and later have to go to bed from sheer exhaustion. Do not become confused, or allow yourself to be flattered into a false position. You have a lot of helpful friends, among influential people, but some younger, more flighty, more emotional acquaintances seem to be taking up a lot of your time this week, and sapping your strength. This is a period when serious business prospers more than frivolous matters for you.

November 20 to November 27

Personal and financial matters are to the fore; it looks as if you are all mixed up between what you want in a worldly way, and what you conceive to be your own personality, or individuality. You are torn between two extremes of desire; hooked, as it were, on the horns of a dilemma, which you think involves your happiness and well-being for a long time. Though this is an important decision, it is somewhat less important than you think; and you will do best to decide it on a practical, worldly, hard-headed, and objective basis, with as little reference as possible to personal, subjective considerations. Your head is now a better guide than your heart: consult it, and follow its dictates. Someone seems quite anxious to be spending your money; guard against this. Guard your health, also, especially from matters of overwork, worry, and irritation over petty details.

GEMINI

The Month of November for those
Born May 21 to June 21

October 30 to November 6

This should be a good week for you, bringing you opportunities of employment that will give you a larger income than you have had for a long time. Domestic matters are likely to be prominent, and not entirely pleasant; there is danger of some illness in the home, and large expenditures from this cause; but your income should be sufficient to the need, if you do not allow yourself to become extravagant over non-essentials. You receive disturbing news from a distance, but this is a matter that has long since become worn out, and you need not worry; the question was decided a long time ago, and this is merely the final annoyance; it does not in any case seem to affect you personally. Some involvement with relatives which you should avoid mixing in as much as you can.

November 6 to November 12

The new moon this month falls in your house of employment, in square to Saturn in your ninth and tenth houses, exercising now an influence in both. This should mark a very active month for you in connection with employment, and matters of your standing and credit. You may now find yourself in a position of greater authority; some proposition made during this week will advance your fortunes and position materially, but in order to yield its maximum good, you must proceed with caution, and especially with tact and diplomacy. This will be a very active week in business matters; new plans of far-reaching significance will be laid, but their consummation will not be entirely without difficulty; although in the end the difficulties are overcome. Powerful friends and associates now help you greatly toward the achievement of some greatly desired goal; the ground work is now laid for the realisation of some major ambition. Don't try to force this matter to an immediate consummation: let things now take their own course, which in the end, however slow it may seem, is for your ultimate great good. You may easily come to look back on this week as one in which your patience led to a very desirable turning point in your life.

November 13 to November 20

Things come out in the open this week, with a rush and a boom; a very fortunate and dynamic period for you, but still a period in which you must let things happen, with careful jockeying, rather than force them: you can upset everything now by being too eager for the ultimate consummation, but if you merely guide events, take advice, act with prudence and tact and courtesy, and work at what is in hand to be worked at, you will continue the good influence of last week. An excellent time for writing, signing papers, making agreements, and in general putting your house in order and getting your affairs in shape. An agreement with a friend proves very beneficial; you seem at this time to profit through writing, correspondence, and favorable publicity. You are helpful to friends, and they are helpful to you, now. Guard your health from excesses of pleasurable activity, for you now tend to be very exuberant, and although this exuberance is in large measure justified, the high-strung Gemini nature usually pays for exuberance in subsequent periods of nervous exhaustion and attendant depression. Keep an even keel, and things will sail along splendidly.

November 20 to November 27

Work in secret at this time; private influences and secret forces are working in harmony with all your best interests, both personal and financial, and you should cooperate with them by keeping your own counsel. Avoid emotional disturbances; do not become involved in romance and intrigue under this secretive influence, but merely permit it to work for you. You have excellent friends working quietly and effectively in your behalf. This is the week of the full moon, when long range plans are laid, and success materializes slowly for new ventures; a fine time to wind up old things, and start new things for the long pull; do not expect too rapid developments for matters started now; be sure they are soundly and accurately conceived and will stand the test of time: under these circumstances, eventually they will prosper. This week should mark for you the wind-up of a very satisfactory month, and find all your affairs in very good shape.

CANCER

The month of November
for those born June 21 to July 22

October 30 to November 6

The Sun, Jupiter, Mercury and Venus in the sign Scorpio this month, related to the fifth house of your nativity, will make this an extremely progressive and prosperous period for you, in which matters to your advantage will come up that may affect your life for a long time. During this first week, you will be surrounded by helpful friends; some major ambition will be achieved, or the plans laid definitely for its achievement; you will find this an excellent week for advancing all your interests. People will be favorably inclined toward you; those in power may now be approached with assurance and courage, for now they favor your requests. Some semi-secret matter of the emotions is in the wind, and this week is a very favorable time to allow it to cease from being secret, and come out in the open about it. You should forget your natural desire not to force yourself, and go straight ahead at this time with whatever plans you have in mind, for everything favors their success.

November 6 to November 13

The new moon November 6th brings domestic and personal matters to the fore in your life, and promises an active month to you in these, as well as other departments of your life. Some restriction is shown from an associate or partner, but this seems to concern business and financial matters rather than personal affairs, which progress smoothly and happily, though slowly. This is a good time for you to write, seek publicity, and in all ways put yourself forward; but do not seek to combat with a partner or associate, who seems to be older, more conservative, and less aggressive than you are right now; get around him by tact, and do not let the matter come to open argument. Be shrewd, cautious, and diplomatic in all things, and you will find that by being so this week you will make much progress. A dynamic and magnetic friend helps you; you receive very favorable news in a letter, and good advice from some younger person or someone in whom you are romantically interested.

November 13 to November 20

Now you must guard your emotions, carefully, or you are going to be hurt; the intellectual rather than the emotional approach will serve best in all matters this week, even in those matters which seem to be primarily of the emotions. Let the head rule the heart, and there will be fewer headaches. Also guard your money; there is some danger of extravagance in the pursuit of pleasure; you have good and loyal friends and associates but this week they are likely to be expensive if you do not watch them, and yourself. You have some associate who is anxious to spend your money; your income now seems to be adequate, even large, but your expenditures appear to pile up this week, and need firm taking in hand. Someone will give you good advice in this matter which you should take. This is a fairly good week for social activities of a mild and conservative nature; you contact someone on a party, or at some social gathering, who will be very good for you. Again it looks as if a lot of your good fortune right now were coming through some manifestation of the written word; either by letters, or as a result of some writing of your own; this is a fine time for you to express yourself in writing, and to get something tangible for your efforts. Travel, seek advice, correspond.

November 20 to November 27

Some major ambition comes to a head this week; through the efforts of friends and associates combined with your own efforts you are put in a position to do something that you have long wanted to do. Up to the full moon, Nov. 20, these things have been developing; and that date, or one very close to it, ought to see the culmination of some very happy event for you, perhaps a matter of partnership or association, either of a business or a private nature, but in either case very favorable. Some slight restriction on your individual happiness has passed now, and there seem to be smooth sailing ahead, and bright skies. You are in fine fettle, feeling strong, alert, and competent, and in good condition to handle and make the most of the good luck that is breaking around you. Take opportunities that come your way; they are not all to the good!

LEO

The Month of November for those
Born July 23 to August 23

October 30 to November 6

The Royal Sign of the Zodiac comes into its own this week, and all during this month, like a lion coming out of the skies. In this week, the last quarter of the old Moon, the Moon is in Leo, with the Sun, Jupiter, Venus, and Mercury in Scorpio, and Mars and Neptune in Virgo on the second house cusp of the Leo nativity. This looks like the coming-to-fruit of a plan, or aspiration, that has been worked on for a long time, and now comes into its own, with attendant monetary reward and personal sense of gratification. This is a fine week to get the most out of whatever has been developing in the immediate past; don't start new ventures; they will come up a little later; but right now you should carefully and with assurance gather up all the loose ends of your present existence, for at the end of one of them there is a pot of gold, and a good deal of personal contentment and happiness. Domestic matters straighten out this week, very favorably; and your home becomes for the next month a busy and happy center to which the world is delighted to contribute the means of contentment and happiness.

November 6 to November 13

Leo rises at the new moon this month, and also at the quarters, and for this reason Leo people may feel that this month is in some way especially dedicated to them, especially within six hundred miles of New York City and the eastern seaboard. This is in general, for the entire world, an active and contented month, full of opportunity for advancement, and the focus of forces falls very advantageously on Leo people. You may now go ahead with great courage and assurance, but do not try to go too fast; there is some conservative force apparently holding you back, but this will not hurt you if you do not try to buck your head against a stone wall. Everything is working in your favor; new enterprises may be begun at this time, and they will miraculously unfold themselves, though slowly, to your great and permanent advantage. Your home is cheerful, happy, and prosperous; many friends gather there, some of them very much to your advantage; you will contact socially, very likely in your own home through the introduction of a friend, a powerful person who will be of great help to you; he is both wealthy and generous, and seems inclined in your favor. Health good; money coming in better than in a long time; be careful of a tendency to go off the deep end in the height of your enthusiasm and spend more than you have.

November 12 to November 20

A matter of partnership presents itself this week, with certain strings attached to it; it will be well for you to swallow your pride and accept the conditions of this offer, for it is ultimately to your great advantage though now it seems as if someone else would mainly profit by it. This is an association that requires restraint and tact on your part if it is to be brought successfully through, but if you can handle it, and be diplomatic in all its phases, you will in the end profit by it a great deal. Someone gives you good advice; a letter to the home has welcome news; a woman or child in the home brings great and unusual pleasure. You should be sitting on top of the world, and your only care is that in your excitement you do not fall off. All you have to do to make this the best time of your life, very nearly, is to handle tactfully that dour associate of yours.

November 20 to November 27

You are at the center of conflicting forces this week, but if you concentrate on worldly and objective things, and forget for the moment what you conceive to be your precious individuality, and your emotional life, you will be able to make this into a very progressive week. You are offered some material advancement in the world which you conceive to be somehow opposed to your private and personal aims; but if you forget for the time being those aims, and accept what is offered, you will find that, amazingly, your personal aims are being served after all. There is money in this which, it seems, drops into your lap; make sure, as before, that in your exuberance it does not also run out through your fingers. You can lay the foundations of a fortune now, but not by spending everything you get. However, there is offered here a remarkable opportunity for your material advancement which you should not hesitate to accept.

VIRGO

The Month of November for those
Born August 24 to September 23

October 30 to November 6

This entire month is active and exciting for natives of Virgo, for now the planet Neptune, which transits Virgo for a period of fourteen years, is activated by the passage through your birth sign of Mars, the fiery, ambitious, active planet, in favorable sextile to a stellium of planets in the Martian sign Scorpio, in the third house of the Virgo nativity. This will therefore be a month of opportunity for Virgo people, when things will come their way. In this, the first week, the focus of forces will be more on the personal, private side of your life, your mental and intellectual forces storing up, as it were, for the activity to come. Mental pursuits prosper; relatives are advantageous to you now; and through your own efforts and plannings you may this week lay the ground work for a very successful and active month. There seems to be a lot of hard work to be done this week; make sure you do not work to the point of nervous and physical exhaustion, for that is the only danger in an otherwise excellent period. Guard also your diet, and do not overindulge in the pleasure of eating and drinking, for Mars in your birth sign gives that inclination.

November 6 to November 13

The New Moon falling (November 6) in your third house starts a four-week cycle when mental affairs, and matters of writing, travel, and correspondence will be to the fore. This is a splendid time for advertising and publicity; you may now hope by the written and spoken word to materially increase your fortune and your prestige. There is some small opposition from an employee, servant, or social or intellectual inferior who tries to throw an obstruction in the path of your work, but this is something that can be overcome; it will mainly upset you personally, without very materially influencing your affairs in the world. This is a time more for personal advancement than financial gain, though you are laying the groundwork for a very material progress in money matters; and inasmuch as this is a favorable month in general for money matters, you may gain somewhat. A brother, or sister, is helpful, and gives good advice.

November 13 to November 20

Active developments, with some annoyance, in the field of employment; a superior is difficult to deal with, but this influence, like the one mentioned last week, will not injure you, unless you give it a grip by becoming unnerved and unduly upset over it. Do not take the aggression in any matter of this sort, and you will find that your opponent wears himself out and subsequently leaves you alone. Some very interesting personal development has business ramifications that are to your advantage; but do not allow yourself to be deceived by the false glamor of this proposition. It has a good practical side, but you will have to ferret it out of a good deal of romancing. Writing, correspondence, travel, advertising, publicity, very favorable for you at this time; you have helpful friends, and your position is advancing all during this week, and month.

November 20 to November 27

A personal matter absorbs you, and threatens to interfere with your business efficiency; a financial matter seems to be pressing and restricting, but you are really in a pretty good spot financially, except for extravagances which you have to guard against. No matter how much you have, there will be a tendency all this month, and especially this week, to spend more, with subsequent worry and fretting about it. You have good friends, but they are costing you money; be careful this week that your upset over personal matters does not both injure your position, and also alienate from you someone that you do not wish to alienate. Avoid emotional, personal matters; do not brood over them; stick to your work and be as objective as possible about it, and for that matter about all things. You are under strong auguries of success and advancement, and only your personal temperament can stand in your way at this time. Refuse to worry, argue, or in any way impair your splendid mental qualities, which now are at their height, and able and anxious to help you achieve what you wish. You can come favorably now before a very important, though small, public, in a way that is very much to your ultimate advantage, though the results may not appear at once. Welcome, this week, all chances to meet people; one, or more, of them is bound to be helpful to you.

LIBRA

The Month of November for those
Born September 24 to October 23

October 30 to November 6

The concentration of forces this month falls in the second and twelfth houses of your nativity, favoring financial matters very strongly and very favorably. There is also a likelihood of heavy expenditures: you get money, under these influences, and also spend it, both through necessity and an inclination to extravagance that is very strong at this time. You are fond of pleasure, and now the opportunities will come up to spend lots of money in that direction. During this first week, friendship is to the fore: there are a lot of people around you, very helpful to your interests, and some quite powerful. void emotional disturbances: this influence favors platonic and intellectual, rather than romantic, attachments and associations, though your naturally affectionate nature may be drawn into some sort of emotional tangle that will hurt you if you are not careful. Some secret matter comes out favorably for finances; there are good forces working around you in this department.

November 6 to November 13

The new Moon on November 6th falls in your second house of finances, with Venus, Jupiter, and Mercury; this foretells an active financial week, and month, with a chance of some sudden gain simply dropping into your lap when you least expect it. The square to Saturn exercises a restraining influence over expenses; this is a good week to make a budget and plan your outlays of money in the assurance that under this influence you will get the most out of what you spend. A partner or associate gives good conservative financial advice which you will do well to heed. Let the head govern the heart in all matters; do not enter into entangling alliances, especially of a romantic or emotional nature, for now they are certain to hurt you. There is a lot of luck here in worldly matters, but less in personal and private concerns; the strongly Martian and Saturnine nature of the configurations are not harmonious with the sensitive and personalized side of the Libran nature, tending to hurt the ruler Venus; but at the same time that they hurt her through her sensitive side they help her to the acquisition of what she wants in a worldly and material way; this is the path you should follow for the best results of this week and month.

November 13 to November 20

A matter of partnership or association claims your attention this week; some older, or more serious or pessimistic person is casting a damper on your good fortune and good spirits. He may be right, for all that his words are not pleasant: this looks like the accusing angel warning you against pride and cocksureness; you will do well to follow this conservative opinion. There is a restrictive influence in your personal life against which it will do you no good to rebel; simply accept it for what it is worth, and make the best of it; it is passing into the background now, and will soon leave you without any effort on your part. Travel, write, study, read; a good week for correspondence, and all matters of mental origin. A relative by marriage is, surprisingly to you, helpful in a very sudden and unexpected way. Accept what comes; you get some good advice from a worldly person that goes against your idealistic nature, but the worldly person is right, just the same.

November 20 to November 27

An associate or partner likes to spend your money, and this month will try to influence you to more expenses than you can well stand. You get good news from afar, greatly to your advantage; a restriction in your domestic environment disappears, much to your relief. Follow the way of the world this week, rather than your own private desires, and you will find that you can get a long way. A long journey looms in prospect, and this is a very beneficial proposition that you may embark on with courage and confidence; it will lead to pleasant, and also profitable results. A venture of some time's standing comes to successful issue; you are now ready to start something new, and should lay plans for long-range completion this week, rather than undertake short, soon-completed projects.

LIBRA—Daily Guide

Nov. 1—Commencing 12.26 a. m. ruler Neptune. A legal matter favors you; deal with those in authority; the law, the church.

Nov. 2—Commencing 1.37 a. m. ruler Neptune-Jupiter. An active and aggressive associate helps you; a secret comes beneficially to light.

SCORPIO

The Month of November for those
Born October 24 to November 22

October 30 to November 6

This is the month where the Scorpion turns into an eagle, and soars to the skies. Very powerful and beneficial influences surround you this month. During the first week, some venture materializes favorably, greatly increasing your power and position in the world; some slight domestic restriction is not sufficient to take the edge off of this enthusiasm and advancement. Friends are helpful to you now, and you are well able to avail yourself of their offices; this is an advancement you have earned, but even at that you might not have got it but for a very strong and loyal friend. You are working pretty hard now; be sure you don't overdo it to the point of nervous exhaustion and fatigue. Your intuitions are uncanny now; you can play your hunches with a good deal of confidence. Financial matters prosper, as really does everything.

November 6 to November 13

The new Moon November 6th falls in square to Saturn; therefore, though this is an excellent month for you, you will have to temper your enthusiasms with tact, diplomacy, and discretion. Guard your tongue from hasty and harsh utterances, for now if you are not careful you may alienate a powerful associate or partner who can do you harm as well as good, for he is of the type that does not forget an injury, real or imagined. Don't give him a chance even to imagine anything now. Go cautiously; things are working fast enough in your favor without being rushed by you; in fact, the only way you can prevent a favorable and profitable outcome to this period is to try to force things faster than they should go. Watch the natural pace of things in your life, and keep to that pace; matters will then go very successfully for you.

November 13 to November 20

You run into a snag here, up against a stone wall, apparently, but if you do not try to crash through it you will not be hurt. This takes the form of some stubborn associate, but there is a way around this obstacle which is much more comfortable and progressive than the road straight through the middle. You get some private advice that is excellent, and should be followed. Your friends are now helpful in this matter chiefly for the advice they can give you, but the thing itself you must handle yourself, and as carefully and tactfully as possible. If you follow this thing slowly, it will eventuate successfully for you but, as has been said, if you try to break through or leap over it, you will come a cropper. Jupiter in Scorpio now for the next year favors all your ventures, very powerfully, so you need not worry about a little delay or annoyance; this is a fine period of your life for you, and this month may well mark the beginning of more contentment and prosperity than you have had in a long time.

November 20 to November 27

A partner, probably a new one, or a new associate, comes on the scene, with something very favorable to you. Your position is advancing by leaps and bounds, and you will have all you can do to keep up with your luck. A friend advances generous propositions for you; you might now profitably be in the publishing, advertising, or publicity business: if such a proposition comes up, you should accept it swiftly and gratefully: publishers with strong planets in Scorpio should have a phenomenal year. Matters of writing favor you now; seek publicity this week especially, with Mercury conjunction Jupiter, and the Moon opposing your Sun representing the people and your popularity with them. You should be very popular now, with people in general, and especially with the people who count: new friends as well as old will be helpful. Go about in society, meet people; there are lots who will help you now, if you give them the chance, but they can't help you if you stay cooped up by yourself. Let thy light so shine before men . . . This is a fine week to reap the benefit of your popularity, and the magnetic forces that make people eager to lend a hand.

SAGITTARIUS

The Month of November for those
Born November 23 to December 21

October 30 to November 6

This is a week in which some peculiar conditions will develop in connection with your position in the world, and your credit. Mars going over your midheaven is a dynamic influence here, which is turned from bad to good by the presence in your twelfth house of four good planets. This will mean that through private and personal sources, or as the result of secret help, your fortunes are materially advanced. A legal matter is a little troublesome, but is really a subordinate matter this week; you will probably be somewhat confined this month, but this seclusion and staying by yourself is good for you; your fortunes are advancing anyway. Keep your own counsel; all during this month you can do more by holding your tongue than by talking about your plans. You receive good advice in private, from someone in authority over you; an active and talkative person is saying nice things about you that will eventually be very helpful. Good for small social gatherings; you will meet someone helpful to you, and very friendly. Your friends come to you, now, with helpful propositions that you should consider carefully.

November 6 to November 13

The new moon falling on November 6th in your twelfth house, in square to Saturn in your third, is likely during this month, and especially this week, to make you serious, thoughtful, and even blue and discouraged. It will be well if you do not fall now into the habit of brooding; this is, on the other hand, fine to study, write, correspond, take up new branches of knowledge, for now you will be content to work alone, and be by yourself, and your mind will be seriously inclined. Do not let this very helpful and deeping influence degenerate into depression. Your worldly affairs profit somehow through this enforced seclusion, and you should not seek too much company or society. Your name is being mentioned where it will do the most good, without your making any move toward it, and your affairs are progressing now without your aid or even knowledge. This month will lay the ground work for much future success and contentment.

November 13 to November 20

A relative, possibly a brother, is troublesome, causing you to feel restricted and hampered and depressed; treat this situation with tact and diplomacy, and do not let it discourage you. Finances are irritating, but this is a momentary matter only; your affairs are really in pretty good shape, now, and you have nothing to worry about. Some illness around you, keeping you busy; but in the meantime, your position is secured by helpful and powerful associates or partners who have your advancement very much at heart; you may safely leave things in their hands, until such a time as you can get at them yourself. Good reports circulating privately advance your interests, even getting to your ears, and making for happiness and a feeling of private well-being. Your luck seems to be in your home this week, rather than abroad, and in your home, through visitors and friends, you will find much developing to your ultimate advantage. Relatives-in-law are more helpful to you now than blood-relatives; one of them will really advance your fortunes and position, though he may do it sub-rosa without your knowledge.

November 20 to November 27

This week things begin to come out in the open; you see the results of what has been going on in your behalf. This looks like a matter of very favorable employment, some sort of advance that comes about suddenly so far as you are concerned, but of which others have known for some time. A matter of association or partnership proves suddenly more beneficial than you had imagined it to be; you contact an old friend who has good ideas for your self-betterment. Privately, you are given an opportunity to increase your income; you should accept this chance gladly; the risk is less than the size of what you are gambling for. This proposition is not iron clad, but by care, and caution, coupled shrewdly with aggression, you can make it a very successful venture. Keep your own counsel in this matter; one person, the person who proposes it to you, is enough to talk it over with.

CAPRICORN

The Month of November for those
Born December 22 to January 19

October 30 to November 6

This month sees you surrounded by friendly and helpful influences, which are working strongly for your happiness and prosperity. There is some restraint and worry about money matters during the first week; associations prove expensive, and cause you concern about your bank account; and there is a slight irritation in the domestic environment; it seems that here you are under some heavy expenses. Social matters, however, are prominent; powerful and influential people surround you; and some of your financial troubles this month may be caused by the thankless task of keeping up with the Joneses. You should not at this time incur debts; but rather seek during this first week to budget your expenses, for now you are in a position to make plans under which you will get full value for every dollar and also get a great deal out of what you spend. A partner or associate has grand plans for your finances, but they are likely to be impractical; examine closely all schemes for making or spending money that come to you from the outside.

November 6 to November 13

The new moon November 6th falls in your house of friends, in square to Saturn in your second, or financial, house. This marks the following month, like the previous week just discussed, as important to you in matters of finance and friendship, and you may now lay long range plans which you will be able to carry out through tact and caution, for the consolidation of your interests. A matter of partnership, association, or contract is very important to you at this time, tending to elevate your position in the world, and bring you increased authority, prestige and power in your sphere of activity. Sign papers this week; agreements are to your advantage; through compromise you progress far. Make plans for the future, for this is the beginning of a very auspicious month for you.

November 13 to November 20

An associate is restricting your movement, and being extravagant or foolish with your money this week; this will not only upset you because of its effect on your business affairs, but will also tend to hurt you personally; it is best to keep your feelings out of this matter. You receive good advice from an associate in business, not someone in authority, but someone under you in station; yet this is sound counsel that you get, and you should follow it, regardless of the source. A legal matter seems to be occupying your attention; this is a good time to get it settled amicably, and somewhat to your advantage. You are disappointed in a friend, but this person seems to have your interests at heart: his failings are the fault of bad judgment rather than of malice toward you. In other words his intentions are good, but for all that, it may be expensive to you to follow his advice. This is a very good time for mental and intellectual pursuits; also for traveling especially long distances.

November 20 to November 27

An emotional matter comes to the fore; you are separated either by distance, or by a quarrel, from some friend of whom you are really very fond. Again, hold down the personal sensitiveness of your nature, or you may alienate a very loyal, valuable and powerful friend or associate. Look at things objectively then you will find that you are not as much hurt as you first think you are. Contact with some younger person proves very valuable and pleasant; you should accept an opportunity that comes your way to join forces with someone in a business venture; this is an excellent chance for you. Sign contracts, and legal papers; you are now in a position to profit by them, as well as by publicity, and all matters connected with the general public. If you are in the advertising or publicity business, this is an especially good time for you to push all your affairs; and regardless of what business you are in, things should go along swimmingly for you during this month, for you are strongly supported in all matters dealing with your ambition and progress.

AQUARIUS

The Month of November for those
Born January 20 to February 18

October 30 to November 6

You have for some time been under the restricting and limiting influence of Saturn transiting your Sun-sign; this has brought responsibilities and difficult circumstances into your life, holding you rigidly to a line of action which at the beginning was no doubt distasteful to you, but which, as time went on, you learned to make the best of, and even determined to get something out of it, under the conditions set. Now, with the entry of Jupiter into Scorpio, supported this month on your midheaven by the Sun, Venus, and Mercury, it looks as if you were about to reap the reward of your patience. The restrictions do not lift, just yet—they go on until the middle of February, 1935—but now you are beginning to see the light, and to be compensated, in a worldly and material way, for the hard work of the last years. During this week, some association, partnership, or contact that you have formed begins to look as if it might amount to something; there seems to be here a chance to increase your income by an agreement of some kind, with a kindly, and powerful person, to whom you are just as useful as he is useful to you. You are popular and well liked now, and it looks as if during this month, you will see yourself going ahead in a worldly sense faster than you have in a long time.

November 6 to November 13

The new moon November 6th falls on your midheaven, in a square to Saturn on your Sun and Ascendant; and although this is a rather depressing influence on you personally, it promises advancement in the world through patience, diplomacy, and tact. You must now not rebel against things as they are, but rather find the way, in the world as it is, to advance your own interests, for that way is open to you now, if you can find it. Contact those in authority; someone above you will give you good advice that you can make materialize rapidly into your advancement. Superiors are now favorable to your interest, and will help you very materially. Begin new ventures this week; meet new people, and seek advice from old friends; you will find right around you, either in your home or place of business, someone whose advice will be exactly in accord with your desires, and will open up avenues of approach that you have not thought of. This is a fine week for your progress, but you must avoid falling into fits of depression, which sap your nervous and physical vitality and unfit you for the fine things that are in store for you if you remain calm and rational.

November 13 to November 20

Personal problems will occupy you this week, after last week's occupation with business or professional matters; you will now be able to solve some major difficulty in a way to satisfy everyone; this will require only diplomacy and cooperation; a matter of partnership is prominent, and very advantageous to your interests. Keep everything on a strictly impersonal and business basis; don't let romance or personalities get mixed up with other things this week. It is a good week for social activities; you can have a good time through parties and gatherings, but these won't help you solve your problems. They will help you relax, however, and that is what you need; but keep your business, your personal problems, and your pleasures in separate compartments of your mind, and don't let them get mixed up with each other.

November 20 to November 27

A domestic problem confronts you; this looks like a separation from someone in your home environment; a secret matter is troublesome; news from afar disturbs you. Look at everything as objectively as possible this week; decide matters on their merits rather than on your own personal desires; this is not time to follow hunches; they are sure to lead you astray. You get good advice this week through a social contact; someone right in your vicinity is able and anxious to help you, and you should accept this aid. A woman is troublesome, also a stranger. This is a good week to stay a good deal by yourself, except for small private social gatherings; don't go around in public places a lot, for your help comes to you in privacy, and especially in your home.

PISCES

The Month of November for those
Born February 19 to March 20

October 30 to November 6

During the first week of this month, the excellent and progressive qualities of the month as a whole will not appear so strongly in your life; you will be under some restrictions during this week which, after they have past, will open up new fields of activity and progress for you. During this week, guard your health; and the health of those around you; there is some restrictive annoyance proceeding from relatives, or relatives-in-law; someone in your environment appears to be ill, and to require your attention and care. There is some small trouble in a matter of partnership, or association. You will do well not to allow this brief passing condition to irritate or annoy you, for after this week has past, you start a period of quite material progress.

November 6 to November 13

The new Moon falls on November 6th in the ninth house of your nativity, supported there by the good and helpful planets Jupiter, Venus, and Mercury; in sextile to the conjunction of Mars and Neptune in your seventh house, and in square to Saturn, in your twelfth. This is a very dualistic influence, but one which you can, by the exercise of your reserve and tact, make a very helpful and progressive one. You may now be called upon to take a long journey, perhaps by water, which ought to have very satisfactory outcomes; or you may receive news from far away that will contribute to your worldly success. This whole configuration is better for worldly progress than it is for purely personal affairs, and all during the next four weeks, you will do well to view everything as objectively as possible, not paying too much attention to your own personal feelings, wishes, and sensibilities. There is indicated some disagreement, or peculiar condition, with regard to partnership, or with regard to your association with someone else; if this is a personal matter, you will do well to postpone decisions till after this month: if a business matter, your partner will bear watching lest he cost you a great deal more than he, or your association with him, is worth. You feel now under great restriction, in your personal life; but if you can forget this for the present, and put your mind on worldly affairs, you can progress a long way this month, for superiors are favorable to you, and will be inclined to give you what you ask for. Do not try now to force matters too quickly, but be assured that they are going along well for you, if you follow the indications of events with tact and diplomacy, and swim with the current rather than against it, or ahead of it. Relatives-in-law, and your own relatives, are both restrictive and helpful at this time, depending on how they are approached; one in particular will give you good advice which you should accept.

November 13 to November 20

Your personal life become very important to you now; there is a tendency to stay by yourself and brood. Well, it is all right now to seek seclusion, but it is never all right to brood and fall into fits of depression; use your alone-ness for study, and reading, and corresponding; some correspondence from a distance brings you much happiness—this seems to be a more or less secret matter, and you should keep it secret, for you derive much solace from it, and anyway, you are fond of secrets. Under no circumstances allow yourself to become depressed or morose, for by these means you negate the constructive forces working around you.

November 20 to November 27

Objectify your desires this week; view them as the world views them, from the rational, practical side, and you will find that the world is eager to help you in their achievement, if they will stand the test of reality and practicality. A relative will be glad at this time to enter into an agreement with you, if he can see that your plan is feasible; take his viewpoint in this matter, for he has good practical sense and his image of things is clear and much to your interests to follow. An annoying condition in your partnership or associations is clearing up rapidly; do not allow this to get on your nerves, for the crux of this irritation is passing now, for the time being anyway. Watch your finances, however, lest the departing partner take some of your money with him when he goes.

PISCES—Daily Guide

Nov. 1—Commencing 12.26 a. m. ruler Sun. Financial matters very annoying; a partner is proving himself unworthy. Watch him.

Nov. 9—Commencing 10.32 a. m. ruler Pluto. A domestic restriction proves advantageous today; your affairs are being helped by private and powerful persons; you can afford to wait.

Nov. 10—Commencing 11.40 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Some proposition for your happiness, made in private, should be accepted.

Nov. 11—Commencing 12.15 p. m. ruler Jupiter. A relative is obstreperous, and very disappointing; don't take this personally.

Nov. 12—Commencing 12.48 p. m. ruler Saturn. Curb a tendency to extravagance, or you will be sorry tomorrow! Caution in finances.

Nov. 13—Commencing 1.11 p. m. ruler Saturn. Very blue over your financial state, but your help cometh from afar; wait.

Nov. 14—Commencing 1.31 p. m. ruler Uranus. Now some dynamic associate puts you in the way of making a lot of headway; someone's money and influence are helping you powerfully. Seek favors, go about in public, meet people. Someone met is helpful.

Nov. 15—Commencing 1.46 p. m. ruler Uranus-Saturn. Very fine day for your progress, but keep your head and your temper, especially in money matters; someone delights to spend your money.

Nov. 16—Commencing 2.01 p. m. ruler Saturn-Neptune. Your personal restrictions descend on you today overwhelmingly. Be careful.

Nov. 18—Commencing 2.33 p. m. ruler Mars. Lots of hard work today; don't carry it to the point of nervous exhaustion.

Nov. 19—Commencing 2.45 p. m. ruler Mars. This is a good day to make financial plans, budget your money, avoid extravagance, and lay plans for the future that you hope will carry for a long time. Objectify your wishes, get the other fellow's viewpoint, and someone will be found at hand to help you.

Nov. 20—Commencing 3.20 p. m. ruler Mars. Social matters prosper; you meet someone socially who will help you.

Nov. 21—Commencing 3.53 p. m. ruler Venus. Don't let a good time cost more than it's worth today. Some treachery to you is overcome.

Nov. 22—Commencing 4.38 p. m. ruler Venus. A powerful influence turns your restrictions into blessings; expect the unexpected!

Nov. 23—Commencing 5.34 p. m. ruler Mercury. The rewards of your labors appear; seek favors from those in authority; forget your domestic troubles.

Nov. 24—Commencing 6.39 p. m. ruler Mercury. Do odd jobs, catch up in small and trivial matters of work. Social matters good.

Nov. 25—Commencing 7.49 p. m. ruler Moon. Write, correspond, read, travel; someone powerful is contacted socially.

Nov. 26—Commencing 6 a. m. ruler Moon. A woman proves very helpful, working behind the scenes for your advancement. Consult her.

Nov. 27—Commencing 9 p. m. Nov. 26 ruler Moon. Don't listen to gossip today; it isn't true, and anyway it doesn't concern you.

Nov. 28—Commencing 10.10 p. m. Nov. 27 ruler Moon. Good day to be thrifty and plan your expenses. Don't worry about finances; you can make what you have go a long way if you try.

Nov. 29—Commencing 11.20 p. m. Nov. 28 ruler Sun. Domestic matters pleasant for Thanksgiving. Forget that treacherous partner.

Nov. 30—Commencing 12.29 a. m. ruler Mercury. You receive good advice both about your business and your personal life; you should heed what you hear today; it is to your advantage even though you may not like it.

MANY THINGS

This is, in fact, a point that so far as I know has never been definitely settled to the complete satisfaction of students in general, although there are a few who ignore progressions entirely and claim to have established as a fact (to their own satisfaction at least) that progressions of any kind have no effect whatever and they base their deductions entirely on transits.

So far as I am concerned this is still an open question that can only be decided by exhaustive and impartial statistical research.

TRAVEL

Question: Where in a chart do you look for direction to travel or to go to "seek your fortune" for general success? Do you use the system of relating your signs considering only their indicating direction in relation to mid-heaven, or do you use the signs in relation to their true Zodiacal position, i.e., as Aries east, Libra west, etc.? Do you travel to 9th or 10th house, or where? Some say go where the sign indicating travel governs a place or city.

Answer: The Third and Ninth houses govern travel. The Third House governs your personal journeys. The Ninth House governs the journeys of others in relation to you. Similarly the Third House governs journeys in which you take the initiative or travel alone, and the Ninth journeys in which you travel with or at the behest of others.. Also those who travel to(ward) you. Finally, in a personal journey the Third House governs the outgoing movement and the commencement of the journey and the Ninth the return trip. By the same token the Sixth House would govern the end of the journey.

Direction is usually related to both houses and signs in the form of a combination of both, although most text books are quite vague on this point.—Astrologers, in the past, having been marvellously gifted with "hindsight" but rather short on "foresight." Strictly speaking, the House correlation would seem to be the most logical, but here we are faced with the necessity of having the correct ascendant and, "believe it or not," my friend, when you turn an Astrologer loose in those twelve Houses and grant him the privilege of using any rising sign that suits his fancy I'll venture to say he can prove almost anything, but, while the results may be entertaining, the practical application thereof may be fraught with strange hazards,

The new Geocentric Astrology based upon a terrestrial Zodiac calculated from a World base line correlating each Meridian of Longitude with a certain degree of the Zodiac would seem to offer a safe and practical solution to this problem.

Finally, of course, the ruling sign of a locality based upon a Horary figure for the founding of a city or the settlement of a locality is also an important factor and cannot be ignored.

It may be added that the use of a birth or Horary figure alone as a determinant of direction is in our opinion not a logical mode of procedure.

ASTROLOGY, OLD AND NEW

"At the death of Moses the Sun was eclipsed and the Written Law (Astrology) lost its splendor, and at the death of David the Moon diminished and the Oral Law (The Tarot) was tarnished."

 Old Astrology, meaning its modern theory and practice, points with pride to its centuries of accumulated knowledge. But all of it came out of its distortions following its eclipse at the death of Moses, and after the Hebrew prophets the Science was lost to the world.

 New Astrology, meaning that based on my Map of THE WORLD AND THE HEAVENS, was millenniums before Moses, going back to the Pyramid Builders, to Chaldea, India, China, retracing the Equinox to the Lost Continent of Mu, whose engineers, foreseeing the destruction of their world when the Equinox opposed the Pleiades, built their history into Cheops upon the Heart Of The Earth with Aldebaran for its capstone.

 The CYCLIC LOCALITY DIAL is a statistical presentation of the Map, giving the Geocentric Time-Cycle for every locality on Earth. This timing system produces the correct chart, in which you will discover the foreknowledge that you seek.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

A philosophy of pain could not cure Job's boils, nor will it help a great deal to tell yourself that "God is good," when days are dark and clouds of depression hang low. Words do not cure boils—or depressions.

The agents of God (or goodness) in this soul-sick world are human hearts full of unselfish love for humanity. Instead of desperately affirming the goodness of God and telling yourself that everything is all right when you know that everything is all wrong, try proving the goodness of God by helping the "other fellow" with his load of troubles.

For such a person every day is a good day.
